NABS PICKPOCKET AND IS STABBED BY THIEF'S COMPANION

Daniel Parline Chases Man Who Put Hand in Pocket From Car to Car on Easton Avenue, Gets Him Down, Accomplice Comes Up and Cuts Him Severely.

ONE RUNS, ONE HELD, BUT BOTH ESCAPE

Man Detained by Firemen Gets Away From Engine House—Victim Wounded in Abdomen, on Arm and Behind Ear.

David Parline, 1411 Francis street, was dangerously stabbed Thursday in a battle with two pickpockets after he had chased one of them several blocks up and down Easton avenue and finally had overtaken him at Leonard avenue. While scores of spectators looked on, most of them thinking it was merely a street brawl, the man's confederate dashed Parline across the right wrist and on the side of the head to compel him to release the pickpocket.

When Parline still clung to his captive, the confederate stabbed him in the abdomen. Before he could use the knife again, Lieut. O'Connor of the fire company station No. 7, 3300 Easton avenue, broke through the ring of onlookers and the stabber fled.

The chase and fight happened at a time when the streets were crowded with men going to their work. Parline had boarded an eastbound Wellington car at Francis street and was standing with two other men on the rear platform.

The men jostled him and Parline felt a hand in his trousers pocket.

He snatched the hand, but the man broke away from him and leaped off the rapidly moving car. Parline dropped off behind him and the other man jumped off after Parline. Then began an exciting race down the avenue.

All Jump on Another Car. After the first robber had boarded a westbound car, run through it and jumped off again, with Parline and the second thief trailing him close, Parline caught him at Leonard avenue. The second thief drew his knife and ordered Parline to release the prisoner. Parline refused.

O'Connor declares the crowd stood around and watched the cutting without trying to make Parline until he broke through and separated the combatants. It was thought at first that the captor had been wounded only slightly, but a police sergeant discovered the wound in the abdomen and called an ambulance.

Stories of how the prisoner finally escaped vary. One version is that he walked through the engine house and left by a back door. Another is that he was locked up in a room that had several windows, and all he had to do was to throw open a window and jump out. The robber escaped from the fire station after he and the wounded man had been taken there. Lieut. O'Connor explained afterwards that he didn't know the trouble was about a robbery, but thought it was merely a fight. When O'Connor left the scene at the fire station the robber disappeared, nobody appears to know how. The matter was called to the attention of Chief Swingley by the police and Swingley ordered an immediate investigation.

At the city hospital it was said that Parline's condition is serious.

Witness Tells Different Story. William Windshelmer, 3217 Easton avenue, who says he was an eye witness, has a slightly different story of the affair from that told by the police. Parline, according to him, both the pickpockets had escaped, and he was following them down Easton avenue, a block east of Leonard.

Windshelmer says Parline rushed up to him and asked him if he had seen men of the description of the two. He pointed them out as they had just passed him. As Parline ran towards them, he saw them saw him, and jumped on a westbound car.

Parline caught the leg of one who vainly tried to kick him off and hung on, half carried, half dragged by the car to Leonard avenue. Here both thieves got off. Windshelmer said, a general fight started.

LONDON TO FAR EAST BY WAY OF WIRELESS

Stations to Be Built in New Jersey, California, Honolulu and Philippines.

NEW YORK, June 6.—Twin wireless stations to communicate direct with London will be built on the New Jersey coast within a year, according to an announcement made today by the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Co. of America.

Options have been obtained on similar sites at San Francisco and Honolulu, and that it is planned to construct a plant in the Philippine Islands, which will communicate direct with the one at Honolulu. The company would thus be enabled to send messages from London to the Philippines by way of the United States, relaying the messages by land wires from the Jersey coast to San Francisco.

The plants at San Francisco and Honolulu will be erected immediately, the announcement said.

A distance from the New Jersey stations to London is 300 miles. The estimated cost of the plants will be $750,000 each.

STUDENTS RAISE DIN AS CARNEGIE SPEAKS

After Rowdiness at Aberdeen University They Give Rousing Cheers for Him.

LONDON, June 6.—Rowdy scenes marked the delivery of Andrew Carnegie's address as Lord Rector at Aberdeen University at Aberdeen, Scotland, today.

The students, the number of whom was large, hurled chairs and rugs about the hall and kept up an incessant din, singing and whistling, but finally permitted the rouser to proceed. After he had begun the rowdiness was resumed, but the proceedings closed with rousing cheers for Carnegie and Mrs. Carnegie.

Carnegie advised the students to "remember that you are not here to become millionaires."

PASTOR'S WIFE IS DEAD OF LOCKJAW FROM NAIL WOUND

Mrs. Kate Score of Clayton Stepped on Nail When Taking Baby to Watch Train.

HAD SUFFERED A WEEK

Wound Received When Woman Walked Through Grass in Her Back Yard.

Mrs. Kate Score, wife of the Rev. John Score, pastor of the Clayton Methodist Episcopal Church, South, died at 7:30 a. m. Thursday of lockjaw after a constant fight by two physicians for a week in an effort to save her life.

Tetanus developed from a wound in her right foot, caused by stepping on a nail Monday evening of last week. For several months it had been Mrs. Score's custom to take her 6-months-old baby into the back yard each evening to see a train pass. When walking through the grass Monday evening of last week with the baby in her arms, she stepped on a nail.

It penetrated the thin sole of her shoe and ran far into her foot. She drew the nail from her foot and was assisted into the house by her son, Russell, 16 years old. The injury was treated, but it was not considered dangerous.

Thursday tetanus developed and Dr. G. C. Eggers was called. Her condition rapidly became worse and Dr. Eggers called in Dr. John Young Brown. The two physicians had worked constantly since that time, Dr. Eggers remaining at the house nearly all the time.

Wednesday evening they gave up hope of saving their patient and she died Thursday morning.

Mrs. Score was 41 years old and was born in Farmington, Mo. She married the Rev. Mr. Score 17 years ago. They went to Clayton in February from Kansas City, Kan., where he was pastor of the Seventh Street Methodist Church, South.

Collar Bone of Fred Strieb Also Broken; Condition Critical.

Fred Strieb, 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Strieb of 2114 Caroline street, is suffering from a fractured skull and broken collar bone as the result of a brief "joy ride."

His condition is critical.

Fred and his chum, Henry May, 5 years old, of 2650 Caroline street, "hopped" a taxicab car when it stopped at California and Park avenues Wednesday evening. The car was eastbound and when it left California avenue it struck a dip and acquired high speed. Henry jumped and Fred followed. The boys rolled in the street and when Henry got up he discovered Fred unconscious.

A man who was passing picked the boy up and carried him to the office of Dr. Kolme at 1601 South Jefferson avenue. After treatment at the physician's office he was taken to his home.

FOSTER TESTIFIES WIFE LEFT HIM 8 TIMES IN 2 YEARS

Realty Dealer Tells of Quarrels in Home, One of Which Spoiled Holiday Feast.

SHE HAS A CROSS BILL

Complains Against Mother-in-Law Who Tried to Teach Her to Like Fried Eggs.

James M. Foster of 466 South Broadway, a real estate dealer, suing for a divorce from Cella N. Foster, testified in Judge Allen's court Thursday that his wife left him eight times in less than two years.

Foster has a cross-bill in support of which she made a deposition that one reason she left her husband was that her mother-in-law tried to make her learn to like fried eggs.

Foster is the son of Mrs. Mary Foster, a wealthy widow, who resumed her first husband's name after obtaining a divorce from Frederick Meyer. Their South Broadway home is known as Castle Meyer. Foster and his wife lived there with Mrs. Foster until their separation, May 25, 1910.

Quarrel on Christmas Day. Foster testified that on Christmas day, 1908, a month after their wedding, his wife began to show signs of discontent. After they had gone to mass together, the Christmas presents were distributed. Mrs. Foster called a friend on the telephone and consumed an hour telling about the presents she had received.

Foster said. When Foster's mother chided the bride for using the telephone so long she became angry and would eat no Christmas dinner. The next day, Foster testified, his wife left home, but he induced her to return.

Another quarrel, he testified, arose when the mother-in-law found a spot on a tablecloth which the bride had spread. On this occasion, he said, his wife told him she was sorry she had married him.

Another time, Foster said, his wife used his dinner dishes and knocked cooking utensils off the stove. Asked what he did, Foster replied: "I told her to calm herself."

Her answer was, he said: "You haven't got Dutch Meyer to fool with now."

"She called me and my mother devils, too," Foster testified, "and she told me that I gave her a bigger house, but not a happier home than she had when single."

Foster testified that after one of their quarrels his wife had him arrested for peace disturbance, but he was acquitted.

He Refused to Make Up. On the anniversary of the day she left home, Foster said, his wife returned and found him playing with his little girl in the front yard of his mother's home.

"She asked to be taken back," he said, "but I told her I could never forget. I said she had lied about me in police court, but she had said about me in police court, but she had said about me in police court."

Dr. Max Starkloff, Health Commissioner, testified as to the good character and peaceable disposition of Foster and his mother. Mrs. Foster is now living with relatives in Richmond Heights, St. Louis County.

TWO WOMEN SAY MRS. BAKER STOLE BAILEY FROM THEM

First and Present Wives Each Name Woman Divorced by Federal Gauger.

THIRD WIFE COMPLAINS

George Bernecker, Whom Baker Swore He Found in Home, and Wife Separated.

One of the three wives who testified in the Douglas S. Baker divorce case

MRS. RUTH BAKER.

Wednesday that Mrs. Baker came between them and their husbands was Mrs. Jessie Bailey of the Park Hotel, who is suing Laurence F. Bailey, son of a well-to-do St. Louis attorney, for divorce.

Another of the three wives was Mrs. Florence Brandstetter, 1408 Minnesota avenue, first wife of the same Laurence F. Bailey. Mrs. Brandstetter said that Mrs. Baker was named in her crossbill when Bailey sued her for divorce. Mrs. Brandstetter's present husband was in court with her Wednesday.

Following the testimony of these women and a denial of their charges by Mrs. Baker, Judge Fisher Wednesday afternoon awarded Baker a divorce. He gave the wife the custody of their 11-year-old son and directed Baker to contribute $20 a month towards the child's support.

Mrs. Bailey's Grounds Revealed. The testimony of Mrs. Jessie Bailey was the first public intimation she has given of the troubles which caused her to file suit for divorce May 13. She charged non-support and indignities, but mentioned no other woman. Afterwards she refused to talk about the case.

Two days after her suit was filed Bailey, who lives with his parents at 3837 Clemens avenue, outlined his probable testimony in a long and detailed statement to the society in St. Louis. They were married after a brief courtship.

Often Saw Mrs. Baker's Picture. Mrs. Bailey was the plaintiff in the case. She said she was secretary of an anti-tuberculosis society in St. Louis. They were married after a brief courtship.

"I have seen her picture on post cards in my husband's possession, she declared. "I found them in my husband's trunk. Also I found a letter from her to my husband and some poetry she had written to him. My husband is wearing a ring now that was given to him by Mrs. Baker."

Mrs. Bailey started to tell what was in the letter, but was stopped by Judge Fisher on objection by Mrs. Baker's attorney. The court ruled that unless she had the letter with her she could not repeat what it contained. She said she did not think to bring the letter and poetry.

"How did you come to be interested in this case?" she was asked.

"I made it my business to look up Mr. Baker's attorney when I heard of it," was the reply. "This woman broke up her own home and has tried to break up mine."

Another Home-Wrecking Charge. Mrs. Brandstetter, the first Mrs. Bailey, when asked if she knew Mrs. Baker, said she did not, "outside of connections with a scandal."

"I named her in my crossbill against Laurence F. Bailey. He was there every morning and evening. One Christmas he bought two umbrellas. He sent one to her and one to me."

Both women testified they had never seen Mrs. Baker and Bailey together. The other wife who testified that Mrs. Baker had brought her domestic into the house was Mrs. George Bernecker.

SOLD WHISKY, BUT IS FREED AS 'BEER' WAS IN WARRANT

Zodiac Club Bartender Is Discharged by Judge Miller on a Technicality.

William L. Yeager, a bartender at the Zodiac Club, near Chestnut and Sixth streets, was on trial in Judge Miller's court Thursday charged with selling beer on Sunday. Police Sergeant Sears testified against Yeager.

"Your Honor," said Sears, "I saw him selling a drink of whisky."

William E. Fish, attorney for Yeager, asked that the defendant be discharged. He said there was no evidence to show that he had sold beer on Sunday. Judge Miller examined the warrant, and finding that it charged Yeager with having sold beer on Sunday, and did not say anything about whisky, ordered the prisoner set free.

FICTITIOUS NAME USED; SUIT DROPPED

Husband Didn't Try to Prevent Wife Meeting Another Man, Says Judge.

After John E. Hays, a Missouri Pacific engineer, admitted on the witness stand Thursday that he used the fictitious name James P. Hays, in his petition for a divorce from Fanny Hays, Judge Fisher ordered that the case be dismissed.

As additional ground for refusing to grant a decree Judge Fisher said that Hays' testimony showed that when he suspected his wife was going to meet another man he did nothing to prevent the meeting.

Mrs. Hays did not testify. At the conclusion of the hearing she withdrew her crossbill. She now lives in Pacific, Mo. The former home of Hays and his wife was at 21 North Spring avenue.

CROW DEMANDS FULL ABOLITION OF BRIDGE ARBITRARY

Government Attorney Files Preliminary Decree in the Terminal Case, Providing for One Rate to East Side and to St. Louis.

He Would Have Court Eliminate Unanimous Consent Requirement in Admitting New Lines to Association.

Judge Dyer Overrules Attorney Priest, Who Objects to Suggestions Offered by Government as to Decree.

A sweeping demand for the abolition of the bridge arbitrary in all of its forms was made Thursday by Edward J. Crow, special counsel for the Department of Justice, in a preliminary decree in the Terminal case filed with Judge Dyer of the United States District Court.

The preliminary decree prepared by Attorney Crow set forth the Government's views of what shall be embodied in the final decree which the Supreme Court of the United States in its decision directed the District Court at St. Louis to make.

Abolition of Arbitrary Sought. The leading paragraph in the Government's demand for the abolition of the arbitrary, in conformance with the Supreme Court's decision, follows:

Said plan or reorganization shall abolish completely any special or so-called arbitrary charge upon traffic (commonly known as "the arbitrary") for the use of the terminal properties and facilities of the defendants, between the terminal of the existing or future proprietary railroads of St. Louis, Mo., East St. Louis, Ill., Granite City, Madison, Venice and Brooklyn, Ill., and any such arbitrary charge for the use of the properties and facilities of the defendants between the terminal of the proprietary railroads in the territory of the St. Louis Railway Gateway in the States of Illinois and Missouri; and in order to abolish completely the arbitrary charge above mentioned, the said plan for the reorganization and operation of defendants' properties and facilities shall provide such methods and means shall be used so that in the handling of traffic by the railroads of the defendants no methods or practices discriminating against the commerce of St. Louis, Mo., either as to rates or service or in any other manner, shall be directly or indirectly used or permitted; and that in the transportation and handling of traffic by the defendants, the cities and towns of St. Louis, Mo., East St. Louis, Ill., Madison, Granite City, Venice and Brooklyn, Ill., and the territory in the St. Louis Railway Gateway, shall be treated by the defendants, as to rates charged, service supplied and facilities furnished, as one common commercial and business center, and the cities and towns above named herein and the territory of the St. Louis Railway Gateway shall be, as to traffic, treated as the St. Louis business district, and one and the same rate shall apply to the traffic to and from each of the above named cities and towns and to the territory designated as the St. Louis Railway Gateway.

Preliminary Decree Asked. The question of what the final decree shall contain was taken before Judge Dyer Thursday on the motion of Attorney Crow for a preliminary decree. The mandate of the Supreme Court in the Terminal case was filed Monday by Crow, with a motion for a decree on the mandate. The Supreme Court's decision directed the District Court to enter the final decree, giving the Government and the Terminal 90 days in which to agree. If they fail to agree in 90 days, the Terminal must submit to dissolution at the hands of the Supreme Court.

Five other points were covered in Crow's preliminary decree. He demanded that the final decree should provide for the elimination of all provisions in the Terminal's contracts requiring the unanimous consent of the proprietary railroads for the admission of new members, and that any existing or future railroad shall have the right to become joint owner and user of terminal properties on equal terms with all roads.

The second demand was that if of Terminal reorganization the Supreme Court must provide right of any company to use all facilities on both sides of the equal terms with all other without becoming a joint owner. Third, that any disregard of the applying railroad (Terminal and proprietors) be

CITY OFFICIALS WITHOUT AUTO LICENSE TAGS HELD

Reber, Tausig and Talbert Argue Municipal Machines Never Have Had Them.

Maxime Reber, President of the Board of Public Improvements; Charles M. Talbert, associate president, and B. J. Tausig, City Comptroller, were taken in custody by a policeman at Eighteenth and Locust streets Thursday and accused of violating a city ordinance. Thursday was the day set for policemen to arrest all persons driving vehicles for which they had not obtained a 1912 license.

When Reber halted his machine to let a street car pass the policeman noted that it bore no license tag of any year.

"I'll have to arrest you," he said. Reber explained that it had not been the custom for city vehicles to carry licenses. The policeman at first was obdurate.

Then Comptroller Tausig pleaded with him and he agreed to release the party.

"But you ought to have a license," he said.

On the way to the city hall Reber and Tausig agreed that the policeman was right. Reber made out a requisition for an automobile license. He sent this to Comptroller Tausig who approved it and passed it on to License Commissioner Alt.

be submitted to the District Court at St. Louis for adjustment, with the usual right of appeal.

Fourth, that the decree should provide for the elimination of the Terminal Association to the exclusive use of its facilities.

Fifth, that under the reorganization the practice of billing goods destined to St. Louis to East St. Louis or other junction points and then rebilling them to St. Louis or points beyond should be abolished.

The most important feature of the preliminary decree related to the abolition of the bridge arbitrary. Attorney Crow attempted to write the provisions covering this subject so broadly that it would be impossible for the railroad to evade the order of the court. If his view of the subject is taken by the court it is the opinion of Crow that it will be impossible for the bridge arbitrary, passenger and traffic, to exist in any form.

The language of the preliminary decree is broad enough to include in the St. Louis gateway all the terminal, ferry and bridge facilities from the southern limits of St. Louis to Alton. Crow's idea is that St. Louis, East St. Louis, Granite City and other suburban towns included in the St. Louis gateway should be embraced in one commercial center, under the order of the court, making it absolutely impossible to maintain a discriminating and arbitrary system.

When the Government's motion was called for a hearing by Judge Dyer, former Judge Priest, counsel for the Terminal Railroad Association, questioned the jurisdiction of Judge Dyer to enter a decree in the case. Priest declared the case originated in the United States Circuit Court at St. Louis, and was certified by it to the Court of Appeals, and that therefore the District Court was without jurisdiction. The Circuit Court was abolished, under act of Congress, Jan. 1, 1912.

Dyer Holds He Can Act. Judge Dyer overruled Priest on this point, declaring it was perfectly clear that the District Court had jurisdiction. Attorney Priest raised the further point that the Supreme Court's decision directed the railroad and the Terminal Association themselves to agree upon a decree to conform with the Supreme Court's order, and that the Government had no right to make suggestions as to what the decree should contain.

Judge Dyer also overruled Priest on this question, holding the decision of the Supreme Court was that the Government and the Terminal should agree on the decree to be entered finally.

Priest then declared that as Judge Dyer was United States District Attorney when the Terminal suit was filed, it would be improper for him to sit in the case and pass on the final decree. To this objection Judge Dyer replied that as District Attorney he had virtually nothing to do with the case, as the petition was prepared by the Department of Justice and the prosecution of the case was handled by special counsel. He refused to disqualify himself.

Priest Has Not Yet Acted. The court then requested counsel to present preliminary decrees. Attorney Crow had his preliminary decree in his pocket, and submitted it to the court. Judge Priest said he had not prepared a preliminary decree. Judge Dyer told Crow and Priest he was going to enter the preliminary decree submitted by the Government next Tuesday.

If the preliminary decree, as prepared by Crow, is accepted by the court, it will be necessary for the Government's attorneys and the attorneys for the Terminal to prepare a final decree covering in detail every point in Crow's preliminary decree.

FORGER PLAYS A RETURN ST. LOUIS DATE, IS CAUGHT

A. H. Dulaney Cashes One Check With Concern Which Took Bad One a Year Ago.

ACQUAINTANCES VICTIMS

Admits Guilt, Declaring That He Had Been Unable to Obtain Employment.

Aquilla H. Dulaney, who admits he cashed several bogus checks in St. Louis last year, tried to play a return engagement here and was caught at Fourth street and Washington avenue Wednesday evening by Policeman Nicholas Pascatte and was identified by John Coakley, handwriting expert in the detective bureau, as "H. C. Moore" and "Guy Carleton" who operated here in 1911.

In his cell at Central District Station Thursday Dulaney admitted his guilt, saying he would throw himself on the mercy of the State. He says his conscience troubles him because his victims were all acquaintances. Inability to get employment is his excuse.

Company Loses Second Time. Dulaney's arrest followed the cashing of a check for $25 by the Silverberg Dry Goods Co., 300 Finney avenue. The same firm cashed a bogus check for him last June, but that transaction had been forgotten. In May and June of 1911 Dulaney, under the aliases of Moore and Carleton, made the acquaintance of several business men. He pretended to be a shirt maker from Birmingham, Ala., and after getting into their good graces, induced them to cash his worthless paper.

Since his return to St. Louis, eight days ago, he had obtained $25 from William E. Harris, a real estate broker at 717 Chestnut street, and $25 from another friend, in addition to the check he gave to the Silverberg Dry Goods Co.

Last year's victims of Dulaney were John W. Kerr, a real estate man at 719 Chestnut street; William Schaper of Schaper Bros.; Louis Friedman of 410 North Sixth street; Al Rubelmann of the George Rubelmann Hardware Co., 905 North Sixth street; C. E. Kornish of the Famous-Barr Co., and W. R. Woodward of the Rice-Stick Dry Goods Co., all of whom cashed checks for $25.

Former Employer Cashed One. Dulaney, when a boy, worked for Friedman and got him to cash a check by telling him a story of how prosperous he had become since leaving his employ.

The police records show Dulaney served five years for forgeries committed in Baltimore in 1906. He was arrested in a Philadelphia hotel. The police may file a charge of forgery, which charge prevented him from being prosecuted for alleged bigamy. He says he is unmarried.

Husband of Woman in Jail With Baby Is Arrested. Harry M. Curran, husband of Mrs. Sarah Curran, who with her 15-month-old baby, has been in jail a week awaiting trial on a charge of forgery, was arrested when he arrived in St. Louis Wednesday night from Chicago. He is held for the police of Kansas City, where, it is alleged, he is wanted on a forgery charge. He denies the accusation. Mrs. Curran is charged with forging the name of W. S. Hunter, her former employer, to a check for $150. She was arrested in Chicago.

GIRL GIVES RULES FOR IDEAL HUSBAND

Bride-to-Be Says Man Should Abstain From Smoking,
Drinking and Meat.

BOSTON, June 5.—If the average American girl will have to get along with a husband not quite ideal if perfection is to be judged by the standards of Miss Jessie Holliday, the young English artist who is to marry Edmund Trowbridge Dana, grandson of the poet Longfellow.

The English bride-to-be lays down these specifications in regard to the ideal husband:

The ideal husband does not smoke.
The ideal husband does not drink intoxicating liquor.
The ideal husband does not eat meat.

Miss Holliday holds that self-control sufficient to abstain from cigars, liquor and meat indicates ideal character in a man.

Nothing has been heard from the young man in the case. His fiancée is evidently sure that he has none of the faults she enumerates.

MISS BRADLEY CONFESSES

Hopes That Her Statement, Made Public, Will Save a Great Many Wrongly Suffering
Women

"I must confess," says Miss Eula Mae Bradley of Hines, Ala., "that Cardui, the woman's tonic, has done me a great deal of good."

"Before I commenced using Cardui, I would spit up everything I ate. I had a tired, sleepy feeling all the time."

"I could hardly drag around, and would have severe headaches continuously."

"Since taking Cardui, I have entirely quit spitting up what I eat. Everything seems to digest all right, and I have gained 10 pounds in weight."

"I still have headaches occasionally, but nothing like as bad as before. I intend to continue using Cardui until I am entirely well."

"You may publish this statement, as other ladies might profit thereby,"—Hines, Ala.

If you are a victim of any of the numerous ills so common to your sex, it is wrong to suffer.

For half a century, Cardui has been relieving just such ills, as is proven by the thousands of letters similar to the above which pour into our office, year by year.

Cardui is successful, because it is composed of ingredients which act specifically on the constitution.

Its popularity is due to its merit. Give it a trial for your trouble.

ROMANTIC ORPHAN IS AN INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL FUGITIVE

"Southern Gentleman" Story of Charles Engle, Aged 12, Punctured After Inquiry.

The romance of Charles or Cecil Engle, aged 12, orphan and self-confessed "southern gentleman," came to a cruel chapter Thursday. He was rescued from the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Meiners, 467 West Belle place, to the Industrial School, from which he ran away last September.

Last Saturday morning the boy was found asleep in an auto belonging to former State Senator Buel L. Matthews of Clayton. He told a story that got into the papers and interested Mr. and Mrs. Meiners so that they wished to adopt him.

He told how his father and mother had lost their fortune and then died within a short time of each other at Amarillo, Tex.; how his sister, Dorothy, aged 8, had been sent to an orphanage at Dallas and then taken to the country home of Mrs. Clara Deane, St. Louis County; how he worked as a messenger boy and saved enough money to join his sister; how he was compelled to work in the fields on the DeFoe farm and eat with negroes, which he said he was not accustomed to, as "a southern gentleman;" how Dorothy had to wash dishes and scrub the floors, "work," he said, "no Southern lady should be asked to do."

Inquiries Thursday developed that Mrs. DeFoe is a wealthy philanthropist who opens her home to orphans because she was herself a poor orphan, and that Charles had spent only one night on the place, leaving because he couldn't get cream "instead of milk for his strawberries."

It developed also that Dorothy and the boy, whose real name is Cecil, are children of St. Louis natives. Cecil was put into the Industrial School last summer by the Juvenile Court. He ran away and got to Amarillo, Tex. From this place he wrote to Mrs. DeFoe, who sent him money on which to come back to St. Louis.

Mrs. DeFoe told a Post-Dispatch reporter Thursday that no orphan on her place ever did so much in the fields as to pull a weed, although she did get them to help her wash the dishes. Little Dorothy said over the telephone that she was happy on the farm and wouldn't leave for anything.

Two Wives Say
Mrs. Baker Won
Their Husband

happiness was Mrs. George Bernecker, 1118 Blackstone avenue. Her husband is the man Baker testified he found in Mrs. Baker's room and whom he beat with a piece of gas pipe.

Mrs. Bernecker testified that on the night Baker says he drove Bernecker from his house her husband did not come home. The next morning he telephoned her, she said, that he had been waylaid by robbers and asked her to send him some articles of which he was greatly in need. A few days afterwards Baker brought her a bundle of similar articles which he told her he had found in his own home.

At the Bernecker home Thursday a sister of the wife confirmed a statement that the Berneckers are separated. She would not say whether the Baker affair caused the separation. The sister told a Post-Dispatch reporter Mrs. Bernecker would not discuss the case. She was asked where Bernecker was, and said he was in New York.

Yonkers Woman in Case.
Miss Ruth Belotte, 476 Page boulevard, was called to the stand in rebuttal. Although younger than Mrs. Baker, Miss Belotte is a half sister of Mrs. Baker's mother. She testified she had known Baker for nine years, denied, on cross-examination, that she is engaged to be married to him and said she could not recall ever having kissed him.

She formerly ran a grocery store at 217 Olive street, she said, and Baker had a desk there where he made out his reports as gauger in the Government service. Miss Belotte denied that Baker owned the store, but admitted she had borrowed $134 from him to help her buy it.

Mrs. Baker in her final appearance on the stand said she met Baker when she was a girl barely out of school, that he was the only man who ever courted her. She denied all charges of impropriety on her part.

Baker told a Post-Dispatch reporter that his marriage in 1900 was the result of a prank. He and Mrs. Baker, then his sweetheart, 10 years his junior, were in Indianapolis to attend the dedication of the new Capitol Building.

"The town was full of street 'barkers' and when they were passing the marriage license office a clerk in it yelled, in imitation of the 'barkers': 'Have a license; have a license! Who'll be the next lady and gentleman to get one?'"

In a spirit of banter, Baker says, they went into the office and got a license, thinking no more of it until that afternoon. Then they saw a newspaper with their names in the marriage license list. At this the girl grew troubled, Baker said, fearing a "misunderstanding if the news got to St. Louis. As they had been sweethearts for some time and called a great deal for each other, he suggested they get married, and they did."

70-INCH LIMIT ON BAGGAGE FORBIDDEN

Commerce Commission Holds
Up New Regulation Increasing
"Excess" Charge.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—New regulations for transportation of baggage proposed by nearly every railroad in the United States, which would advance the rates on "excess," were suspended by the Interstate Commerce Commission today for 120 days from July 1, pending investigation.

The proposed regulations follow: For any piece of baggage (except immigrant baggage checked at port of landing), the greatest dimension of which exceeds 48 inches, there will be an additional charge for each additional inch added to the charge for 48 pounds of excess weight.

"No piece of baggage, the greatest dimension of which exceeds 70 inches (excepting immigrant baggage checked at port of landing), will be transported in baggage cars."

The commission believes that the fixing by the roads of the dimensions of baggage will work an unnecessary hardship upon travelers.

WOULD FORM LOAN FUND FOR FARMERS

Kansas' Plan is to Give Protection When Crops Fail.

MANHATTAN, Kan., June 5.—A plan for the State to establish a loan fund from which farmers may borrow at not more than 3 per cent interest is advocated by J. H. Miller, director of college extension work at the Kansas Agricultural College.

He thinks such a fund would be a blessing to victims of crop failures who are now obliged to pay tribute to high interest sharks in order to live until they can raise crops. It is also suggested that such a fund would enable a farmer to borrow enough money to prevent dumping his crop on the market and beating down the price.

The theory was advanced 20 years ago by the Populists and is more favorably considered now than at that time.

Hat Burned on Woman's Head.
LONDON, June 5.—A woman's hat was set on fire apparently by a match thrown from the top of an omnibus near the Royal Exchange. The hat was destroyed, but its owner suffered nothing worse than a slight singeing of her hair.

The Post-Dispatch is the only evening newspaper in St. Louis that receives or publishes news gathered by the Associated Press.

SHOOTS PARENTS OF WIFE, ENDS LIFE TO ESCAPE POSSE

Tragedy Follows Failure of Missouri in Prosecution of His Father-in-Law.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
LEONARD, Mo., June 6.—Enraged at the failure of his prosecution of Charles Upton, his father-in-law, who wounded him in self-defense May 1, Thomas Ralls went to Upton's home this morning, shot him through the right lung, wounded Mrs. Upton and later killed himself when about to be captured.

Immediately after the shooting he ran out of the house and tried to escape. Policemen hastily organized a posse which pursued Ralls for three miles. Just as the men came up with the fugitive he drew his revolver and killed himself with a bullet through the head.

Probably Fatally Hurt.
Upton is believed to have been fatally hurt, but his wife's condition is not considered serious.

FRANKLIN TELLS OF SEEKING POSITION

Darrow Case Witness Says He Applied to Assistant District Attorney.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 6.—Bert Franklin's probable relations with the District Attorney's office and the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association comprised the subject of a searching cross-examination of the witness when Franklin resumed the stand today in the trial of Clarence S. Darrow for alleged jury bribery.

Franklin testified that about two weeks before he entered the employ of the McNamara defense, he had applied to Assistant District Attorney W. J. Ford for employment. Since his arrest for jury bribery, Franklin said he had visited the offices of the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association on two occasions.

KING ALFONSO'S COUSIN AMAZES PARISIANS AT BALL

In Scanty Costume, Prince Louis Ferdinand Fairly Rivals the Great Nijinsky.

DANCE FULL OF THRILLS

Real Sultan and Real Maharajah Tell Hostess They Never Saw Anything Like It.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

Copyright, 1912, by Press Publishing Co. (New York World).
PARIS, June 6.—Paris society had its annual sensation marking the approaching climax of the season in the spectacular ball given by the Countess Anard de Chabrilan. Few costume functions of society since the days of the empire have surpassed it in point of originality or magnificence.

Countess Chabrilan summoned her guests to an "entertainment of One Thousand Nights." Members of the most fashionable set attended in costumes resembling those of characters of the Arabian legends.

Andre de Fouquieres, the Beau Brummel of Paris, acted as master of ceremonies, announcing the entrance of the several groups. There were 11 groups in all, each forming a tableau on a raised stage.

Some Magnificent Costumes.
Countess Chabrilan wore a magnificent Persian costume of green and gold, literally laden with jewels. She took her place on a raised dais, acting as Queen of the Ceremony.

Princess d'Arenberg entered the room riding on a richly caparisoned elephant. The Duchess de Clermont-Tonnerre and the Countess de Castellane represented the "Unhappy Imprisoned Princesses" condemned to death. They were brought into the room in an immense cage of gold.

Marquis de Brantes was borne by stalwart slaves on a bed of rushes beneath a flower-strewn canopy. Countess de Lubersac entered alone and danced with exquisite grace a dreamy, Oriental movement which made the assembly gasp with delight.

But it remained for Infante Louis Ferdinand of Spain, the younger son of Infante Eulalia, to achieve the daring success of the evening. Painted entirely green, he appeared in the scantiest of costumes and danced a Hindu movement reminiscent of Nijinsky of the Russian Ballet leaping wildly to weird music.

Although the guests had been treated to one sensation after another, there were exclamations of surprise and wonder as they saw this scion of Spanish royalty in his slight costume show agility which would have done credit to a professional acrobat.

Real Sultan and Maharajah Guests.
Not content with reproducing the Arabian Nights, Countess Chabrilan had for her guests a real Sultan and a real Maharajah, who agreed that the dance surpassed in magnificence any entertainment they had ever witnessed in their own kingdoms.

The Maharajah of Kapurthala, noted for the splendor of his fetes and his love for dancing, congratulated his hostess time and again on the success of her entertainment. The Sultan Ag Char was no less enthusiastic in his praise.

Mrs. William Moore was one of the few American women present. She was dressed in the rich costume of an Oriental Princess.

WIGGINS INDICTED FOR MURDER AND ROBBERY
Record for Quick Justice Expected in Case of Police-man's Slayer.

The grand jury Wednesday afternoon returned two indictments against George W. Wiggins, the man who, Monday morning, shot and killed Patrolman Louis Schnarr in front of 1403 Chouteau avenue, and then held up six men in a restaurant at 404 Manchester avenue, and robbed the place. One of the indictments charges murder in the first degree and the other charges robbery in the first degree.

The police say they hope to establish a record for quick justice in these cases. Schnarr was killed at 2 a. m. Monday, and the restaurant was robbed at 3 a. m. The grand jury was impaneled Monday, evidence was placed before the jurors Tuesday, Wiggins was arrested Tuesday night, and the indictments were returned Thursday. The police hope to have the cases tried at the present term of court.

TREASURER'S BOND IS HELD FOR BANK LOSS

CARROLL, Ia., June 6.—Carroll County has won a long fight against the sureties of George L. McAllister, former County Treasurer, and the United States District Court has decided the sureties must pay the amount McAllister lost through the failure of the First National Bank of Carroll.

The County Treasurer's deposit was $25,000, but the receiver of the bank has turned over $600.42. McAllister gave three bonds—two of $25,000 each with the Illinois Surety Co. and the Empire Surety Co.—and the third with three personal sureties, the latter bond being for $10,000. By the decision of the Court, the two surety companies are to pay ten-twelfths of the loss and the personal sureties the remaining two-twelfths. The case has been in court for several years.

PRISONERS WORK IN ASYLUM GARDENS UNDER NEW SYSTEM

LINCOLN, Neb., June 6.—Closely following the trouble and tragedies in the State penitentiary last winter a different system of handling the convicts has been established under the direction of Gov. Aldrich. Idle prisoners are now taken outside the walls and worked on the grounds of State institutions.

At the State Hospital for the insane a squad of 10 worked a week and planted enough onions and other vegetables to supply the institution. During the season this same squad of 10 will be taken to the asylum grounds and they appreciate being outside so much that they do a big day's work whenever given an opportunity.

The Governor's plan is to work the prisoners on roads and other places sent out to different parts of the State on road work if such a move looks practical after experiments nearer home.

FINALS IN SCHOOL ATHLETIC LEAGUE AT BROWNS' PARK

President Hedges Gives Use of Sportsman's for Big Fourth of July Contests.

The big final meet of the Post-Dispatch Public School Athletic League, to be a part of the Scene and Safe Fourth of July celebration, will be held at Sportsman's Park on the morning of Independence day.

As there is to be no ball game at Sportsman's Park on the Fourth, request was made of President H. L. Hedges of the St. Louis American League team, on behalf of the boy athletes of the public schools, for the use of the park for the interschool finals. President Hedges, replying to the request, says that he will be extremely pleased to donate the use of the park for the finals.

So Sportsman's Park will be filled with cheering thousands of school children and their parents on the morning of the Fourth of July, who will watch the best boy athletes of about forty schools compete in final field and track events for the honor of their schools and the gold, silver and bronze medals to be distributed by the Post-Dispatch.

Medals for the Winners.
Winners of first and second place in each event at the individual school meets now being held are entitled to represent their schools at the big interschool meet on the Fourth of July. The Post-Dispatch will give gold, silver and bronze medals to the winners, seconds and thirds of each event.

Prof. A. E. Kindervater, supervisor of physical culture of the St. Louis public schools, has been asked to take charge of the final meet, and has said that he will do so if nothing unforeseen prevents. Prof. Kindervater has been in charge of the public school field meets of the past two years and the clock-like system of the events at these meets amazed everyone who saw them.

Athletes to Assist.
Prof. Kindervater will have the assistance of a number of famous St. Louis athletes, who have volunteered their services.

The final meet will begin at 9 a. m. and will be finished in time to enable all those in attendance to disperse to the district celebrations in various parks in time for a picnic dinner, in preparation for the festivities of the afternoon and evening.

In spite of unfavorable weather, the boy athletes of the Marshall School held their elimination meet Wednesday at Fairground, under the direction of Capt. Hobart Rude. The results were as follows:

60-yard dash—Charles Siegel, 423A Evans avenue, won; Herman Adler, 442 Evans avenue, second; Leon Lippman, third.

Broad jump—Leon Lippman, won; Charles Siegel, second; Herman Adler, third.

70-yard dash—Richard Thompson, 1517 Cora avenue, won; Pearl Kline, 4468 Fairfax avenue, second; Bernard Kline, third.

100-yard dash—Hobart Rude, 4472 Easton avenue, won; Isador Lippman, second.

Other events were postponed because bad weather kept some of the boys away.

Oak Hill Contests.
The meet of the Oak Hill School, held in connection with the picnic at Stuhlmann's Grove, on Gravois avenue, was directed by Principal George L. Hawkins and Capt. Leslie Thorpe. All the events on the official program were given. The results were:

Fifty-yard dash—Louis Groedeke, 4371 Chippewa street, first; William Thorpe, 4182 Meramec street, second; William Groedeke, third.

Broad jump—Henry Thamer, 4018 Dunica street, first, 12 ft. 4 in.; Louis Groedeke, second, 12 ft. 3 in.

Sixty-yard dash—August Hynek, 4606 Atkins street, first; Le Oliver, 4310 Beck street, second; Charles Block, third.

High jump—In this event August Hynek and William Ehrhardt tied for first place at 50 in., and will settle the question of supremacy later; Lee Oliver, third, 48 in.

Seventy-yard dash—Harry Cartier, 4471 Wilcox avenue, first; John Reiford, 4329 Chippewa street, second; Harry Meyer, third.

Shotput—Harry Cartier, first, 27 ft. 2 in.; John Reiford, 4323 Itasca street, second, 21 ft. 9 in.; Harry Meyer, third, 20 ft. 1 in.

Hundred-yard dash—Clifton Thompson, 224 Osceola street, first; Clinton Reiford, 463 Gannett street, second; John Lowhorn, third.

Relay race—Winning team, Clinton Reiford, Clifton Thompson, Roy Woodworth, Leslie Thorpe.

At the Clay School meet, held at Olin Park, under the direction of Principal J. V. Wettig and Capt. James Chittenden, the results were:

Fifty-yard dash—John Hutchinson, 3427 North Ninth street, first; Herbert Rheln, 1538 Agnes street, second; Fred Huebner, third.

Broad jump—Alfred Ruedeling, 3307 North Eleventh street, first; Raymond Roof, 1408A Penrose street, second; Louis Giesch, third.

Sixty-yard dash—Ralph Sudemeyer, 344A North Nineteenth street, first; John Huebner, 3529 North Ninth street, second; Robert Giesch, third.

Seventy-yard dash—Sheldon Baker, 3927 North Ninth street, first; Orpy Jolly, 817 Bremen avenue, second; Manfred Hinde, third.

Broad jump, 75-pound class, substituted for shotput—Sheldon Baker, first; Ralph Sudemeyer, second; Orpy Jolly, third.

H. W. MABIE FAINTS TWICE

LAWRENCE, Kan., June 6.—Hamilton Wright Mabie of New York, associate editor of the Outlook, fainted twice here when attending the commencement exercises of Kansas University. He first was overcome at the end of his address, but was revived and had taken his seat at the speakers' table for the annual banquet when he again was overcome. He was carried to the hall and revived. An approaching storm and high altitude of the university made the heat in the auditorium almost unbearable. Two women also fainted during exercises.

"I cannot express what I went through during several severe cases of womanly trouble before I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was in such a nervous condition I could not keep still. My limbs were cold, I had creepy sensations, and I could not sleep nights. I was finally told by two physicians that I also had a tumor. I read one day of the wonderful cures made by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it, and it has made me a well woman. My neighbors and friends declare it has worked a miracle for me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is worth its weight in gold for women encountering female trouble. If it will help others you may publish my letter."—MRS. HYPNOTIC EYE AND CHEERFUL TALK ARE ROBBER'S WEAPONS

Thief Also Displays Revolver
While Looting Tobacconists'
Cash Register.

A hypnotic eye, cheerful conversation and a revolver were the weapons used by a lone bandit who robbed Herbert L. Ames, a 50-year-old bachelor tobacconist and stationer, in his store at 1319 Olive street Wednesday night.

The robber, a pleasant-faced young man, entered the store when a heavy rain was falling. Ames stepped forward to wait on him, but he said: "I just came in to get out of the rain."

Ames noted a peculiar expression in the young man's right eye. It was like a perpetual wink. It invited and inspired confidence.

"That's all right," said Ames; "stay as long as you like."

Pays for Nickel Cigar.

Ames went to the rear of the store to write a letter. When he returned a few minutes later the young man was standing near the cash register, looking over magazines and papers on the counter.

He walked across to the cigar case and asked for a nickel cigar. Instead of handing Ames the nickel he threw it into the cigar box. Ames fished the nickel from the box and walked around a counter to the cash register. He opened the drawer and put in the nickel.

A quiet voice behind him said: "Leave it open." Before turning Ames closed the drawer. "What do you mean," he said, "I mean that drawer," replied the robber.

Ames turned and found himself looking into the hypnotic winking eye and a long revolver barrel.

Thought it a Joke.

Regarded by the merry expression of the eye, he thought it was all a joke. "Quit your fooling," he said.

The robber walked behind the counter and backed Ames into a corner. He tried to open the cash register, but it was fitted with a safety key, which had to be pressed before it could be opened.

Still pointing his revolver at Ames, he commanded him to open the drawer. When Ames had done this the robber used his left hand to take the money.

With his right he kept the revolver leveled at Ames. He kept up a running fire of reassuring talk.

"We'll get along fine together, if you keep still," he said, turning his laughing eye on Ames. "I don't want to hurt you. I need this money. I wouldn't take it if I didn't. I never killed anybody and I don't want to."

Asks That Some Be Left.

Each time Ames tried to speak he found that winking eye looking at him along the revolver barrel. He summoned up courage to say:

"Leave me some of that money. I need it, too."

"All right," said the robber. "I'll leave you some."

When the robber, still holding the revolver, had backed out into the dark and the rain, Ames went to the register. The robber had kept his word. He had left 5 cents in the drawer, and had taken $10.

Ames says the robber was about 5 feet 8 inches tall, and weighed about 150 pounds. He needed a shave. His neck suit was black, and he wore a black derby hat. The queer, winking expression of his right eye was his most noticeable facial characteristic.

Seventh Annual Outing to Be Given by Club Next Week.

The seventh annual automobile ride for orphans will be given by the St. Louis Automobile Club Wednesday of next week. Officers of the club report that more than 1700 children will be taken on the outing.

In order that all the children from 18 orphans' homes may be cared for, Joseph Barroll, chairman of the committee which is arranging the plans for the outing, has issued an appeal for automobiles. Sixty machines have been promised, but Chairman Barroll says 120 will be needed. His appeal is not limited to members of the Automobile Club, but is addressed to all auto owners.

The machines will meet at the St. Louis Club at 9:30 a. m. Wednesday, and the committee there will give directions to the drivers. Each machine will be decorated at the club.

The route to be taken by the machines has not been definitely decided, but it will probably be through Forest Park and into St. Louis County. Each child will receive a horn, a button and a flag.

SEVEN BROTHERS IN FAMILY CORPORATION

Purpose of Organization to Help
Members Needing Financial Aid.

NEW YORK, June 6.—In a certificate of incorporation filed with the Secretary of State at Albany today, it was stated that Abraham, David, Joseph, Nathan, Oscar, Samuel and Simon Weltman, brothers, had incorporated the Weltman family fund, for the purpose of assisting such members of the family as might in the future require financial aid.

Six of the brothers are wealthy clock manufacturers of this city, and the seventh, Nathan, is a progressive farmer, with several farms in Central New York State.

In the articles of incorporation it is stated that the income of this fund is to be used for the education and advancement of any children or descendants of the seven brothers who may require such assistance. It is in the opinion of the four trustees, no member of the Weltman family requires the aid of the family fund, then the interest will not be allowed to accrue, but will be devoted to charitable purposes.

WEDDING RING 9 CENTS

Man Asking Annulment Tells of Token Used in Ceremony.

NEW YORK, June 6.—Declaring that he had been forced to marry against his will by his sister and his brothers, and that a 9-cent ring was used at the ceremony, William A. Reynolds brought an action for annulment, which was heard in the Supreme Court in Brooklyn.

He said his wife was Mary Kilkenny, a former servant in his family. After he had been threatened if he remained single, he declared, he consented to marry her, and on the way to the clergyman's home a young woman was sent with 19 cents to a 3 and 9 cent store to buy the wedding ring.

Judge Kelsey said he did not see how a man of Reynolds' strength could be so easily intimidated, and reserved decision.

It's a mighty good thing for the women of America that PARISIAN SAGE can now be obtained in every town of consequence.

PARISIAN SAGE is the only certain destroyer of the dandruff microbe which is the cause of most hair troubles.

These pernicious, persistent and destructive little devils thrive on the ordinary hair tonics.

PARISIAN SAGE is such an extraordinary and quick acting rejuvenator that it makes all dandruff disappear and stops falling hair in two weeks.

It does away with terrible scalp itch over night and causes the hair to grow in abundance.

And a large bottle of PARISIAN SAGE costs only 50 cents at all drug and department stores and toilet goods counters. The girl with the Auburn hair is on every package. Look for it. Made in America by Givoux Mfg. Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

MISS KELLERMAN SAYS A NIECE OF CROKER IS FRIEND

"Diving Venus" Also Declares
"Uncle Richie Is the Dearest Old Man."

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

LONDON, June 6.—Annette Kellerman, the "diving Venus," who is filling a vaudeville engagement in London, seemed genuinely amazed and thoroughly annoyed when told by the Post-Dispatch correspondent of the story printed in a New York paper quoting her as saying that Richard Croker wished to adopt her as his daughter. The story was based on the fact of her having been seen two days in succession in Croker's box at the theater.

"It is the most ridiculous story I have ever heard," Miss Kellerman exclaimed. "It simply staggers me. Uncle Richie is the dearest old man I ever met, but my great friend in the family is his niece, Mrs. Stella Bowman, whom I met on the Adriatic. I am giving her physical culture exercises."

"We became very friendly. She invited me to stay at Glen Cairn for two days. I stayed there three weeks afterward and Mrs. Bowman took me to the happiest three weeks of my life in London. I sincerely hope this report will not break our friendship, but she will understand how absurd this story is. They invited me to their Derby box today, and also to the Oaks on Friday, and to stay at Glen Cairn during the Dublin horse show week."

Miss Kellerman took from her purse a telegram dated May 20, on which day she made her first appearance at the Oxford music hall. The telegram was from Dublin, and read:

"Sent flowers from here this morning. May your success break all records. Will see you June 2. Love from Glen Cairn. 'STELLA.'"

Glen Cairn is Croker's residence in Ireland.

Among Americans present at the Derby yesterday were Alfred and Reginald Vanderbilt and a party of friends on his coach. Richard Croker had a box. He was accompanied by his niece and Annette Kellerman and Dr. Hanly of Dublin. Croker said he hadn't a cent bet on the race.

WOMAN HAS HEART ATTACK AFTER ARREST

Mrs. Vesta Hammell, Charged
With Shoplifting, Taken to Central Dispensary.

Mrs. Vesta Hammell, 56 years old, of 4600 Cottage avenue, held at police headquarters on a charge of shoplifting, suffered an attack of heart failure shortly before 1 a. m. Thursday, and Police Surgeon Vinyard was called to treat her. She failed to rally promptly and had to be taken to the Central Dispensary. Later she was returned to headquarters and Matron Donlon cared for her the remainder of the night.

Mrs. Hammell was arrested Wednesday evening at the request of George J. Jackman, proprietor of a dry goods store at 4610 Easton avenue. He told Special Officer James Casey Mrs. Hammell had carried away two dozen handkerchiefs.

Mrs. Hammell denied the charge. She told the police that while in the store she dropped two quarters from her purse. She picked one up, she said, but the other rolled under the counter and disappeared. She asked several employees to help her look for the coin, she said, and when she failed to find it she concluded that one of them had picked it up and was keeping it. She took the handkerchiefs, she said, intending to hold them as security until she got her quarter.

RISKS LIFE 3 TIMES
TO SAVE HER POODLE

Policeman Thrice Drives Woman
From Burning Home on Minerva—Dog Is Safe.

Three times Patrolman Donohue of the Page Boulevard Police Station had to compel Mrs. Henry L. Schaeffer, 6885 Minerva avenue, to leave her burning home Thursday morning. Each time she had gone back into the house to rescue "Cutie," a poodle.

Finally, when firemen broke open a rear door, "Cutie," much bedraggled from getting mixed up with a jet from a hose, trotted out of the house and Mrs. Schaeffer was content.

The fire started at 3 a. m. in the apartments on the second floor of the building, occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Morris Schwartz. The origin has not been ascertained. Mr. and Mrs. Schwartz alarmed the Schaeffers and a neighbor fired his revolver several times to attract the police.

The building, owned by Schwartz, a contractor, was damaged $200. Loss to furniture in the Schaeffers home is estimated at $500 and to that in the Schaeffer home at $200.

RADCLIFFE-HARVARD ROW

Each Says Other's Students Are Poor Dancers.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 6.—Students at Radcliffe are aroused over the statement made by Mrs. Laura Chandler of this city that all women's colleges Radcliffe harbors about the poorest dancers. Mrs. Chandler has been teaching Harvard men the art of dancing for 35 years and her ire was stirred over a recent editorial published in the Radcliffe Magazine which charged that college men and those of Harvard in particular were poor dancers and should take lessons in deportment.

"Harvard men have the distinct reputation of being the best dancers of any group of young men in this country," said Mrs. Chandler. "The Radcliffe girls have the reputation of being about as poor dancers as there are in any of the women's colleges in this part of the country."

ENRICHES A PRINCESS

Father Gives Engalitcheff's Wife
Interest in Property.

CHICAGO, June 6.—Princess Engalitcheff of Chicago and of the Russian nobility is declared to be worth a million in her own right, her wealth having reached that sum by a gift she received today. It was a one-fourth interest in the Schiller Building on Randolph street, including the Garrick theater.

When it was announced the other day that Prince and Princess Engalitcheff would live in Paris, Charles W. Partridge, father of the Princess, looked through his warranty deeds and other effects to find a souvenir for his daughter, and decided to give her an interest in the Schiller Building. So a deed was filed presenting the building to Partridge's four children, each getting a fourth interest. The property cost Partridge $250,000 a year ago, and it is said to have increased in value since to about $500,000.

ESCAPES TITANIC, STRICKEN AT POLO

William Carter Probably Fatally Injured on Brynmawr Field.

PHILADELPHIA, June 6.—William Carter, society man and one of the Titanic passengers, who escaped in the same boat with J. Bruce Ismay, was probably fatally injured at Brynmawr in a polo game between the Brynmawr "Benedicts" and the Philadelphia Country Club "B" team.

The accident occurred in the fourth period. Carter had been playing a brilliant game and was endeavoring to make a sharp turn to ride off Lawyer Stokes, when his pony fell. Carter went to the ground, his head bent forward, and the pony rolled over him. For almost half an hour he lay on the field, with three physicians working over him. They were unable to bring him back to consciousness and he was taken to the Brynmawr Hospital, where he still is unconscious. Dr. Gamble,

PLAYS HOOKEY 9 MONTHS

Illinois Lad's Parents Thought He Would Be Graduated.

ELGIN, Ill., June 6.—Earl Midgley, who was believed by his parents to be a member of the senior class at the high school here is given credit as the champion "hookey" player. Although he remained away from school nine months, the deception has just become known. The class is soon to be graduated and when Earl's name did not appear in the list his parents inquired why. He said he lacked one credit. Appeal to the school board revealed his truancy record. His parents first suspected something wrong on Sunday when the boy complained of being ill and asked to be excused from attending the baccalaureate sermon.

CUBA BUYS 10,000 RIFLES, FORMING VOLUNTEER GUARD

Gomez Asks United States to Deliver Guns and Ammunition Immediately.

By Associated Press. WASHINGTON, June 6.—President Gomez informed the United States, through American Minister Beaupre today, that he is forming a volunteer guard to protect foreign property against attacks by negro rebels. He asked that the rifles he recently ordered be increased from 5000 to 10,000, and that 2,000,000 cartridges accompany them. He urged the United States to make every effort to facilitate a quick delivery of the rifles and ammunition.

With American battleships steaming to Guantanamo, the force of marines immediately available for the protection of foreign life and property in Cuba is increased to more than 1000.

Altogether the battleships Minnesota, Missouri, Mississippi and Ohio—the fourth division of the Atlantic fleet, which put out from Key West late yesterday under command of Rear Admiral Underhill—have on board nearly 500 marines. These ships should arrive at Guantanamo tomorrow.

The cruiser Prairie, which already has landed 450 men under command of Col. Lucas, has about 350 more on board. The four battleships of the third division of the Atlantic fleet, still at Key West under Rear Admiral Osterhaus, on the flagship Washington, have nearly 1000 more marines which could be moved to Cuba in little more than a day if the situation should demand.

The combined force of bluejackets on all the ships which, however, could be landed only in the most pressing emergency, easily would swell the total American force available to more than 3500 men.

As President Gomez indicated in his statement last night, the assumption by the American marines of responsibility for the safety of the foreign properties in Oriente will relieve Gen. Moncada's army of the most onerous portion of its work and will enable that officer to begin almost immediately a campaign in force against the marauding bands of negro insurgents. It is estimated 3000 marines would be fully equivalent to five times that number of Cuban regular soldiers.

4 CHILDREN CAUSE PARENTS TO REWED

Bride of W. H. Michell Had Divorced Him Three Years Ago.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Michell were married a second time at Mrs. Michell's home, 412 West Belle place, Thursday in the presence of their four children, who brought about the reconciliation. Mrs. Michell obtained a divorce in Evansville, Ind., three years ago. Though she had corresponded with her former husband she did not see him again until Monday night, when he made his second proposal of marriage and was accepted.

"My husband came here Monday night to see the children," said Mrs. Michell. "They were so glad to see him that I was deeply affected. I realized that I was foolish when I got a divorce and we agreed it would be better for the children if we forgot the past and be married again."

Mrs. Michell, since her divorce, has been a stenographer with an office in the Merchants-Laclede Building. Her husband is traveling salesman for an Indianapolis chemical company.

CHARGES WIFE DRANK; TELLS OF OTHER MEN

T. A. Holbrook in Cross Bill Also Says She Smoked—He Denies Heavy Drinking.

Thomas A. Holbrook, a chemist, in answering his wife's charges that he drank a case of beer a day and three or four quarts of whisky a week, denied in his cross-bill filed in the Circuit Court late Wednesday that he drank to excess.

Holbrook alleges that for the last three years his wife has been addicted to drinking liquor, and that she has smoked. He also charges she entertained men at his home in his absence.

The Holbrooks were married June 20, 1888, and lived together until April 20, 1911, when the husband says, he returned in the evening to his home at 3234 A. Theodosia avenue and found it deserted.

Mrs. Holbrook's petition alleges also that her husband had struck her 30 times in the last few years.

Slight Hope for Walter Hixby. CHICAGO, June 6.—Slight hope for the recovery of Walter Hixby, general manager of Public Service Companies of Springfield, Mo., who is dangerously ill at the Hotel La Salle, was expressed by the attending physician, Dr. W. A. Allport, today.

"The patient," he said, "had a fair day but his condition does not permit of much hope for recovery."

ALWAYS USE NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE FOR THE HAIR DURING HOT WEATHER

It Keeps the Scalp Clean and the Hair Beautiful.

Now is the time to begin the use of Newbro's Herpicide. Summer is here and it is during the warm months that the dandruff germ does its most destructive work.

Be warned in time. The germ that causes dandruff is no respecter of persons. The head resting upon aristocratic shoulders is as open to attack from this germ as those in humble spheres. The germ is there working industriously and destructively, throwing up the scurf skin as evidence. The hair is dull, brittle and lacks luster. The hair bulbs are dying one by one and the dead, dry hair is dropping out. This is what the dandruff germ is doing to the hair of nine hundred and ninety-nine persons out of every thousand.

As a preserver and cultivator of the hair nothing is equal to Newbro's Herpicide. It gives the hair a snap and life, a radiance and luxuriance that can be obtained in no other way. The dead, dull appearance characteristic of germ-infested hair is replaced by the shine and luster, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health.

To be assured of results always insist upon having genuine Herpicide. It kills the germ that causes dandruff, prevents the hair from falling out and stops itching of the scalp. There is nothing "just as good."

Herpicide is sold in 50 cent and $1.00 sizes everywhere. Your dealer will supply you and absolutely guarantee it to do as claimed or refund your money. Applications obtained at the better barber shops and hair dressing parlors.

Send 10 cents in postage or silver for sample bottle and booklet telling all about the hair to the Herpicide Co., Dept. 3, Detroit, Mich.

The Sunday Post-Dispatch has over ONE-HALF MILLION more readers than any other newspaper west of the Mississippi.

13 DELEGATES OPPOSE THE REBER APPROACH; DELAY FREE BRIDGE

REBER OPPONENTS COMBINE IN FAVOR OF SCHERRER PLAN

Promoter of Alton & Mississippi Approach Refuses to Give Names of Association.

OBJECTIONS TO IT URGED

City Officials Point Out Nothing Is Known of Responsibility of Speculators.

The selection of the east side free bridge approach will come up in the House of Delegates tomorrow night. By passing the Reber approach bill, as it was passed by the Council, the House of Delegates can insure the speedy completion of the free bridge, and end the delay which is costing the taxpayers $50 a day and depriving the city of the advantages that would accrue from the operation of the bridge.

The House of Delegates is divided on the approach question. Thirteen members strongly oppose the Reber approach; seven are for it, and eight members have not committed themselves definitely.

To prolong the bridge delay, the members of the House who are opposed to the Reber approach have planned to combine Friday night with the members who favor the Gerhart approach and the Alton & Mississippi approach and concentrate their votes in favor of the Alton & Mississippi approach.

Vital Objections Urged.
The vital objections to the Alton & Mississippi approach, as urged by city officials charged with the duty of building the bridge, are:

The tender of the approach site is made by the Alton & Mississippi River Belt Railway and Transportation Co., promoted by Leo J. Scherrer, an East St. Louis real estate speculator.

The company does not own the land which it has offered to give the city as a site for the approach.

Scherrer persistently has refused to give the names of his associates, leaving the city without means of determining the responsibility of his company.

The Alton & Mississippi Railway has no physical assets other than a tract of land for terminal tracks south of the city, and portions of a proposed right of way for a belt line through St. Clair County.

Scherrer owns 10-55 of a well-known tract and one mile north of the proposed Alton & Mississippi approach. The approach would make it necessary for the railroad using the approach to detour of two and one-half miles into and out of St. Louis.

The building of the approach would result in large profits to the promoters of the Alton & Mississippi by saving them construction costs and enhancing the value of their real estate holdings.

Scherrer won't name his associates. A Post-Dispatch reporter who asked Scherrer whether he would disclose the names of his associates, he said: "No, I do not wish to be known as a speculator."

The Alton & Mississippi Railway can make good every promise it has made to the city.

"We are willing to give a bond to insure the faithful performance of our promises, and that should be sufficient. My object in offering to give the land necessary for the approach site is this: The Alton & Mississippi has been granted the privilege of connecting with the

The unfinished free bridge, construction of which was begun nearly three years ago, and group of delegates who are opposing the Reber bill which, if passed, would practically insure the early completion of the bridge.

free bridge approach at a point 2300 feet east of pier No. 4. If our approach is accepted by the city the city will build an approach which our company would otherwise have to build at a cost of $750,000 to $1,000,000. We can save that amount of money and invest it in terminals on the St. Louis side of the river.

"We can well afford to give the land for the approach to make this saving. An approach on the site we offer can be built for about $500,000, which is $50,000 less than the estimated cost of the Reber approach.

Costs. There is Saving.
"By accepting our offer the city would save not only this $500,000 on the first cost of the approach, but approximately $80,000 a year in interest, taxes and maintenance charges.

"There will be no grade crossings anywhere on the line of our approach, or at any point where the proposed Alton & Mississippi Railway intersects with the trunk lines on the east side. Owing to the broken character of the country through which our line passes we will go either over or under every trunk line railroad."

Scherrer made his first free bridge proposition in March, 1910, and several times has modified it.

The incorporation of the Alton & Mississippi Railway, as shown by the Quanser, Henry L. Stern, Herbert J. Friedman, Michael Feinberg and Thomas E. Lewis. The incorporators, with the exception of Lewis, live in Chicago. Philip W. Haberman, a St. Louis lawyer, has represented Scherrer and the Alton & Mississippi in all litigation pertaining to free bridge matters. Henry L. Stern of Chicago is a brother of Haberman's law partner.

President Reber of the Board of Public Improvements told a Post-Dispatch reporter the Alton & Mississippi approach was not impractical.

"The proposed approach is not where the city wants an approach," he said. "We have acquired all the land for the located approach at a very reasonable price. If any other approach is selected, the city will lose the land which it already has acquired. The big obstacle in the way of Scherrer's proposition is that the city knows nothing of the responsibility of the Alton & Mississippi Co., and Scherrer has refused persistently to give information on this subject."

AM for the Hale approach along the bed of Cahokia Creek first. I favor the Alton & Mississippi as second choice. But if any approach can pass the City Council and get 14 votes in the House of Delegates I will cast the fifteenth vote and pass it.

An approach is demanded at this session, and a selection should be made at once.

By William L. Igoe
Democrat, Twentieth Ward, 3631 Garfield avenue, lawyer.
FAVOR the Alton & Mississippi approach, now that the northern approach is beaten. I am against the Reber approach or the Associated Retailers' extension. The Associated Retailers want to bring people to St. Louis by trolley. This will have to come over the wagon approach, which has been located and is not in the controversy. I believe the organization is making a mistake in sacrificing usefulness of the railroad approach to get a prompt completion of the bridge, and that it has made a mistake in accepting the Reber approach.

Some approach should be selected at this session of this Assembly.

By John H. Becker
Republican, Ninth Ward, 2102 South Eleventh street, saloon keeper.
Y first choice is the Alton & Mississippi approach. But I want an approach built to the bridge and if it is demonstrated that the Associated Retailers' route can be adopted I will vote for it.

Some approach should be selected at this session.

Republican, Twenty-first Ward, 3834 Palm St., advertising.
FAVOR either the Alton & Mississippi or northeast approaches. At present I lean strongly toward the Alton & Mississippi.

By William C. Loeffel
Republican, Seventh Ward, 1914 La Salle street, jeweler.
LEAN toward the Alton & Mississippi approach. It gets out of East St. Louis quicker than the others suggested and is the cheapest to construct. I don't think we ought to hurry in this matter. If we cannot choose an approach at this session it should be delayed until the next session.

By Andrew Scully
Democrat, Twenty-second Ward, 4150A Naffitt avenue, fire insurance.
FAVOR the Alton & Mississippi approach, now that the northern approach has been killed by the Council. I am against the Associated Retailers' approach because it has been demonstrated that it is bottled. The Alton & Mississippi route will take the bridge away from the bottle.

"By all means an approach should be selected at this present session. The people are entitled to some action."

By John J. Lahiv
Republican, Sixth Ward, 114 N. Eighth street, tailor.
AM for the Alton & Mississippi route. If they can deliver the right of way they have the ideal approach.

The Assembly should select an approach before we think of taking a vacation this summer. I am for giving the people some action on the bridge. It has been delayed too long.

By Joseph P. Methudy
Republican, Fifteenth Ward, 2750 Russell Av., druggist.
AM for the northeast approach as long as it is under consideration. My second choice is the Alton & Mississippi. I am against the Reber approach or its extensions. It is inaccessible to the railroads who may want to use the bridge.

Some approach should be selected at this session. The people demand it.

By Richard A. Walker
Republican, Seventeenth Ward, 3445 Pine street, physician.
FAVOR the Alton & Mississippi approach if it can be passed. We want an approach. If the Alton & Mississippi cannot get the votes necessary I might approve some other route.

The people are demanding action. We should adopt an approach at this session.

Roosevelt Bolt Predicted.
There isn't the slightest doubt in the minds of the men on the firing line for both factions that something disagreeable is going to happen, no matter which side wins. The Taft men are convinced Roosevelt is going to bolt, i. e. he loses the nomination. Even leading Roosevelt followers privately predict the Colonel will "start something."

The chief function of the Dixon corps at Chicago seems to be to keep Roosevelt informed of the undertakings of the Taft outfit. None of his men appears to be in contact with moves to initiate a decisive move of any sort. They will be instructed by direct wire from Oyster Bay—or wait until the Colonel can be hauled here in record time to do his "fighting."

There is little doubt that these will be the results of deliberations on the three undertakings entrusted to the National Committee:

1. The selection of Elihu Root for temporary chairman of the convention.

2. The refusal of the committee to seat newly elected members favorable to Roosevelt.

3. The seating of enough of the 132 delegates whose votes are essential to accomplish the nomination of Taft.

The most tangible information from the Roosevelt camp is that no decisive step looking to a bolt will be taken until the line of battle has been definitely established. Then there will be a conference to decide upon what step to take.

T. R. SCOFFS AT A WALL STREET FUND
OYSTER BAY, June 6.—Col. Roosevelt was informed this morning by an interviewer of a report that Wall Street had offered to contribute $150,000 to finance a bolt, should the Colonel fail to obtain the nomination at the regular convention.

"That," he said, "is simply stuff and nonsense. It is too ridiculous for me to discuss."

Commenting on his victory in South Dakota, the Colonel said:

"From all the figures I have received, it looks like a clean sweep in South Dakota, as it would have been in most of the other states, if I had had a fair show."

Workmen are making additions to the room fitted up at Sagamore Hill with telegraph and telephone leading to the convention hall and Senator Dixon's headquarters in Chicago. Roosevelt telegrams are now swamping the Oyster Bay office.

Root Sees Taft Will Stay in Fight for Convention Chairmanship.
WASHINGTON, June 6.—President Taft today held a conference of more than two hours' duration with United States Senator Root of New York National Committee's choice for temporary chairman of the Republican national convention and when Senator Root came out and was asked if he was going to stay in the fight for the chairmanship, he replied that he was and emphasized it by adding: "To the finish." It then became known that the President had entered into the determined fight to make Root chairman, but it was denied he desired to make Root permanent chairman as well.

BELLEVILLE GIRL WED TO PRIZE BACHELOR

MRS. J. RUSSELL V. WICKY.

PRIZE BACHELOR OF BELLEVILLE IS WEDDED SECRETLY

Dr. J. R. V. Wickey and Miss Mima M. Hill Tell of Marriage, May 26.

Belleville has just learned that it has lost one of its prize bachelors. Dr. James Russell V. Wickey, long regarded as a most eligible young man, but considered beyond the banishments of Cupid because he was a charter member of the "Bachelors' Club," has announced that he and Miss Mima Margaret Hill were married in Springfield, Ill., May 22.

When the dentist began buying things to furnish a home his friends suspected a wedding soon was to take place. The dentist and his bride then produced a marriage certificate, signed by a Springfield minister. They will live at 4164 North Jackson street, Belleville.

Since the marriage Mrs. Wickey has been at the Belleville home of her uncle, Charles Webb. She and the dentist first met at the home of a mutual friend two months ago.

Spark Hits Celluloid Collar.
Greeley, Colo., June 6.—Next time Robert Seymour, a farmer near here, drops into Cal Hart's blacksmith shop he will put his collar in his pocket. Seymour was watching the busy blacksmith when a spark struck his celluloid collar. After he had been thrown into the horse trough Seymour needed a wig. His hair was burned off.

THE UNIT RULE IN OHIO.

The action of the Ohio Democratic convention in tying up all the delegates from the State by instructions for Gov. Harmon illustrates the injustice of the unit rule.

Gov. Harmon was entitled to the State's delegates-at-large because he carried the State in the presidential primary and controlled a majority of the delegates to the state convention. But he was not entitled to the 20 delegates elected by the voters of 10 congressional districts as Wilson delegates and instructed by their votes to cast their ballots for Wilson.

In this case the unit rule nullifies the direct mandate of the voters of the district. In all cases it smothered the sentiment of large elements of the voters whose wishes are overridden by a State convention majority. It is undemocratic, because it denies the voters of the districts representation in the national convention.

Gov. Wilson has suffered more than any other Democratic candidate by unit-rule instructions. No other candidate has such widespread support as he. In every state he has developed considerable strength. In many states he was overcome only by the combined strength of all the opposition candidates. The state delegations of a number of states bound to other candidates by unit-rule instructions contain large contingents of Wilson men. He is second choice to every favorite son.

Ohio's splendid, unsolicited tribute to Gov. Wilson proves his popularity. He is a unique figure in politics. Rugged in his honesty, with sound principles and high ideals of public service to which he is stubbornly loyal, with clarity of thought and rare power of expression, he has appealed to the imagination and won the confidence and admiration of the people. They know him as a man who sees the right, and supports it regardless of consequence. His Ohio support came from progressive Democrats who thought more of Democratic success than of the fortunes of favorite sons.

Gov. Harmon's candidacy is not helped by his seizure of Wilson delegates. It does not conceal the final blow to his dying campaign. His candidacy has fallen flat. His inability to lead the Democracy in the impending crisis in the nation's progress has been manifest from the beginning. If the desperate attempt to bolster up his candidacy by enforcing the unit rule against the will of Ohio voters calls attention to the injustice of the rule and leads to its abrogation, it will be beneficial to the party and the country.

Arkansas is for Clark with that familiar mental reservation described by the term "as long as there is a chance to nominate him." This may, under the conditions of the Democratic convention, mean no more than a complimentary vote on the first ballot. The real beneficiary of instructions for favorite sons, stepsons, nephews and neighbors' boys will be the adopted child upon whom the affection of the whole nation centers.

OUR SILENT NATIONAL BANKS.

The national banks of St. Louis are reluctant to answer the interrogatories of the congressional committee which, on behalf of the people, is investigating the alleged existence of a money trust.

If the banks have information at their disposal which would tend to disprove the existence of a money trust, it would appear to their interest to respond directly to the inquiry. A refusal to divulge information of their condition on the ground that it is confidential, or that it may be had from the Comptroller, or on any other ground would seem bad policy at a time when full publicity is demanded in the people's interest by their representatives.

The public will be naturally curious to know what the facts are which banks, by their refusal to divulge them, construe as detrimental to banking interests. The public will inevitably draw its own conclusions should the banks remain inactively silent.

The bank is an institution which appeals to the public at large on the score of confidence, and it is a relation of trust and confidence which the bank owes towards the whole public, in a vital sense. It violates its largest and most important relation by a policy of secrecy or silence.

THE ONLY BRIDGE SOLUTION.

The Alton & Mississippi approach has taken the place of the northeast approach as an excuse to delay bridge legislation and further postpone the completion of the structure.

So far the Alton & Mississippi is, in the language of the swapping schoolboys, an "unsight-unseen" proposal. Mr. Scherrer, the East St. Louis real estate dealer who is promoting the transaction, refuses to disclose the names of his associates or the backers of his project who would give bond for his promises. The proposition lacks the element of good faith. Nor has it substantial arguments in its favor.

It would be preposterous for St. Louis to base its municipal bridge legislation and a bond election on a blind-alley scheme of promotion without guarantee of good faith or of the ability of the promoter to carry out his plans. The city ought not to go into partnership on any scheme of real estate promotion. It would be discreditable.

It is incredible that 12 members of the House of Delegates favor a project of this kind, against business policy, against common sense, against the combined judgment of engineers and business men. Why should these members favor this speculative proposal in opposition to an approach worked out by city officials, approved by a committee of engineers and urged by capable, unbiased business men who have carefully investigated the subject?

The extended Reber approach provided for in the Associated Retailers' measure fills all the conditions required for an efficient approach. All objections to the original Reber approach are met in the bill. It is the cheapest, most direct and convenient approach.

The Globe-Democrat joins the Post-Dispatch in support of the Retailers' bill, with an unqualified endorsement of it as the only possible solution of the problem. We reprint on this page the substance of an editorial in which our contemporary forcefully emphasizes the convincing arguments for the Council bill.

The extended Reber approach is advocated by the Associated Retailers, the Lumbermen's Exchange and all citizens who, without special interests to serve, have intelligently considered the question.

If there is further delay, the responsibility will rest on members of the House of Delegates. Each one who votes for costly postponement will be held to strict accountability. Can delegates afford to continue the scandal and burden of delay? Can they afford to disregard public protest and defy the public will?

The United States have landed marines in Cuba with the express stipulation that it is done to protect American property and not by way of intervention. The scope of the protection-of-property theory is broader, and under it we should be able to acquire a fee-simple title to the whole island in a short while.

THE "GET-HIS-GOAT" POLICY.

"We Democrats don't like Supt. George Williams and we are going to get his goat." This is a statement attributed to a Fulton politician and may assist the Missouri taxpayer to an understanding of how his money is spent at the State hospitals for the insane.

It is preposterous that changes in appointments that ought to be governed by scientific competence alone should be sought on political grounds. A Post-Dispatch reporter points out that asylum appointees from superintendent down to cooks are regarded as a part of a Governor's personal machine. At Fulton in 1909 a medical staff of Republican physicians was held to be what the patients needed and an entire staff of Democratic physicians had to give up their places. Even when a Democratic Governor was succeeded by a Democrat in the past, it has been customary for the latter to drive the former's appointees out of the asylums and put his own medical friends on guard. In this manner general practitioners who have never had experience in the care of the insane have been invested with important asylum responsibilities.

A taxpayer who does not claim to be well posted knows that if disease attacks his eyes, he must consult a specialist. That only specialists should presume to undertake the delicate task of ministering to diseased minds is even more imperative. Missouri pays for specialized scientific skill in the treatment of its insane unfortunates. If they do not get the benefit of the skill, it is because politicians profit at the expense of the mentally unsound.

It is time Missouri abandoned the "get-his-goat" policy in the management of its asylums.

Watermelons are due from Texas, but they are not as big as they used to be before Texas waged war on foreign corporations.

SAFER FREIGHT TRAINS.

One cannot commend everything that the Brotherhood Welfare Association demands and still believe in a gradual, as opposed to an abrupt, cessation of all hard labor, but the Association's demand for safer freight trains looks as if it were something in which anyone could join without danger of doing society any great harm.

Freight trains make absolutely no concessions to passengers, though it is certain that there will be passengers in season. Unless one can stow away in a box car, where the ventilation is bad, there is nothing above board better than the open exposure of a flat car or a spare corner in a stock car in which there may happen to be a couple of hundred sheep. Everything below is miserably adapted to the comfort of passengers and the preservation of human life. There is positively nowhere to lay one's head, and on a fast freight one does very well to hold on. The Association does not consider that there is any reason for this, nor can we readily think of one.

ourselves. The passenger traffic on freight trains is for the most part lost to the passenger trains anyway. Where one passenger rides them as a matter of principle and picturesque opposition to fabled ills 99 men ride them because they have no money.

The railroads do not increase their revenue any by continually widening the gulf between the comforts of the passenger train and the discomforts of the freight. They only make a little harsher the lot of the Brotherhood, which is the creature of the railroads. Did the railroads ever think of that?

Swat the free bridge and grade crossing obstructionists!

LEADER IN CITY PLAN WORK.

If it were not certain that somebody of almost equal prestige and authority would arise in coming months to take up an important branch of the work of Daniel H. Burnham, the city-plan movement in American cities might be expected to suffer a serious setback in the sudden death abroad of the distinguished architect.

The influence of his structural creations at Chicago's World Fair will always have an important place in the history of architecture in this country, but even more important was his work for artistic effects in the laying out of cities. Elaborate and highly original plans were prepared by him for the beautifying of Chicago, of San Francisco after the earthquake, of Cleveland, of Detroit, and of Manila, in the Philippines. He was also consulted in city-plan work for less important cities. His ideas must be recognized as furnishing the initiative to an important stage in city progress.

The downtown district in Chicago is filled with skyscrapers that exemplify his architectural work, the Masonic Temple being one of them. He was also the designer of the Selfridge American department store in London.

If there are "haunts" aboard the Isla de Luzon, why not anchor her a little lower down, and let them fight it out with the free bridge Jinx?

WHAT?

What has Theodore Roosevelt done to fill the empty market basket? What does he propose to do?

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Mayor Lambert's Bridge Plan.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Mayor Lambert of East St. Louis, Ill., seems to have solved the problem of the free bridge approach. The Council and House of Delegates of this city might do well to heed Mayor Lambert's advice and suggestions in the premises, as East St. Louis is fast becoming a metropolitan and cosmopolitan city and one of the best locations for manufacturing industries in the Mississippi Valley. The good will shown to St. Louis, and now made manifest by its neighboring city (East St. Louis), bespeaks well for both cities—which are destined to become practically one and are known to the world as Greater St. Louis. Therefore, would it not be wise and expedient to complete the unfinished free bridge without any further delay, litigation, vexation of spirit, and thereby stop and discontinue paying $50 a day for interest on the free bridge bond issue, as this "outlay," according to the Post-Dispatch will continue, without return, until the bridge is completed.

The Carpathia's Crew.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
I highly honor and respect Capt. Rostron of Titanic fame, but why is so much wealth flowing into his hands? Why not honor and respect his brave crew and divide the rewards with them? The captain could not have made the rescue alone, and I am of the opinion that the crew did all the actual labor connected with the rescue.

A Movable Approach.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
As I understand it, the idea of the Gerhardt approach to the bridge is to extend it on a trestle till a patch of ground is found which don't belong to anybody and surrounded by ground which don't belong to anybody, because if you can't do this, and have to fight anyhow, it would be about as well to land one place as another. When the trestle is extended a couple of miles out into Illinois and a good soft place to come down is found the committee will proceed to look for tracks, and if any are found showing that there have been there and may have claims on the ground, the trestle will be indefinitely continued on toward Lake Michigan. This is as I understand it.

Euclid Park.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
The writer is glad to note the item about the formation of the Euclid Park Improvement Association. Rev. Father Bradley, president, with the avowed purpose of establishing a city park on the vacant ground lying between King's Highway, Euclid, Terry and Spalding avenues. This park is needed by the city and the land is now available without the cost incident to the purchase and wrecking of buildings, etc., which other cities have, while the future will bring to this city. I say if the hundreds of voters who have joined this association desire this park, let us have it.
A LARGE TAXPAYER.

THE UNFINISHED FREE BRIDGE.

The city is paying $500 a day for interest on the Free Bridge bond issue. This outlay will continue, without return, until the bridge is completed.

HIT 'ER OUT!

JUST A MINUTE.

Written for the Post-Dispatch by Clark McAdams.

MR. ANTWINE ON CHICAGO.

MR. ANTWINE dropped his newspaper into his bag and chuckled in the depths of his philosopher's beard.

"It wouldn't surprise me none if the Republican National Convention was the makin' of Chicago," he said. "What Chicago needs is peace, an' she'll be strong for it in about three weeks. You know it is customary in Chicago, if you haven't a job, to hit with a brick the first man you see working. It also is customary, if you have a job in Chicago, to hit with a brick the first idle person you see. You can buy a brick from a brick by anywhere in Chicago for a penny, and on bargain days at the big stores you can buy them as cheap as three for a dime. Some of the people have their own brickyards, and it is not at all unusual to see a resident of Chicago going down the street with a brick in each hand. There are even prizes for hitting a policeman, or a walking delegate, or a strike breaker, with a brick. Almost anybody in Chicago can knock a man off a wagon seat with a brick at 50 yards, or hit a bird with one flying. I saw a statement some time ago that enough bricks to duplicate the Masonic Temple were thrown in Chicago every day, and that the brick dust sometimes falls on the decks of vessels 100 miles up the lake. A good day in Chicago is one in which you knock more people down with a brick than knock you down with one. A fair day is an even break. A bad day is one in which you get knocked down more times than you knock the other fellow down. The first time I went to Chicago I got hit in the head with a brick before I got out of the Adams street station. The last time I went up I took my own bricks with me and knocked four men down through the window of the smoker before we got within a half mile of the station. I was learning the town. "Chicago has got to be intimidated. The teamster who goes down the street with a dozen bricks piled up on the seat alongside of him has got to see Victor Murdock and his 500 red-headed Roosevelt men going down State street in pursuit of two or three thousand federal officeholders. The man who darts out of an alley with a brick in each hand and bowls over a workman with a dinner bucket on his arm has got to see the pure and the impure foodists clash on the lake front. After he has seen the one-sword men close with the two-sword men, and heard Roosevelt roaring around at night, Chicago will get under the bed and stay there long enough to come out cautiously. You will remember that when Ulysses returned from Hell he dug a storm cellar in his back yard and espoused universal peace. It'll be like that with Chicago."

He: I beg your pardon, but I don't remember whether you had your maiden name or one of your early married names restored this time.
She: You could never guess it. I have had them all hyphenated.
"Is he a practical man?"
"Well, he has always been a Republican."
"Are you for Roosevelt?"
"Sh!"

Mr. La Follette's strength along the border leads one to believe that he probably could be elected President of Canada.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

HEALTH HINTS.

PATIENT.—Try the medical clinic at Jefferson and Lucas. You do not need a hospital.

WORRYING.—We know of no "cure cure" for anything. People have different experiences. Small bag of salt, dampened, bound on the throat and kept there, is said to have been beneficial in some cases of worry. Another treatment: Iodine of potassium, two drams; iodine one dram; water, two and one-half ounces; mix and shake a few minutes and pour a little into a vial for internal use. Dose: Five to ten drops before each meal, to be taken in a little water. External application: With a feather wet the enlarged neck, from the other side of the neck, and rub in a string of amber beads night and day a remedy. Sometimes they get so hot they fairly burn. We read of a cure by homeopathic treatment, and successful surgical operations are reported. A physician writes: In those cases where operation is needed, it is bad judgment to delay time trying all kinds of treatments. Cases troubled with headaches and bad heart action are getting dangerous near the trans-operative stage. Altitude, work, and worry are bad on gouter subjects. The size of the gouter is not an indication bearing on whether it should be removed. However, it is not an indication. How much does it upset nervous balance? I know of no other condition requiring more careful medical examination and discriminating advice than gouter.

HOUSEHOLD HELPS.

THANKS.—Canned asparagus: Boil the asparagus in salted water until tender, drain and stand the stalks on end in pint jars set in boiling water. Have the water in which the asparagus was cooked boiling and fill level full, sealing immediately.

J. P.—Preserved, uncooked strawberries: Cap berries and allow a pound of granulated sugar to each pound of fruit. Put the sugar, any juice that may have exuded and a very little water—enough to moisten the sugar—into a preserving kettle and cook just long enough to dissolve the sugar, then lay in the berries. Bring to the boil, then take from the fire and pour into shallow agate pans. Cover each pan with a pane of glass and set in hot water every day until sirup is thick and rich. Put up in glasses and seal. Here is a new way of preserving strawberries or blackberries: Wash the fruit and drain thoroughly. Measure the fruit, and put it into brand new granite kettle, or into one that is not stained or cracked. Put in an equal amount of sugar (not equal weight), and no water. Cook moderately fast until the juice jellies when cooled. Stir occasionally, and do not let the fruit boil any longer than is absolutely necessary, as overboiling tends to darken the juice. Take out a little of the juice and cool off every little while, so that you get it just as firm as you want it. If you want the preserves to spread over bread and butter, you want them less firm. Do not cook them so long in that case. If you want them to serve as ornaments, or as a most delicious dish when you have company, cook them longer, and put into glasses or bowls, so that they will fall out of the bowl or glass upon a plate in a pretty firm mold. Strawberries are especially beautiful in the clear jelly mold. When cooked in the latter way and served with whipped cream they are a delicious dessert.

LAW POINTS.

H. T. T.—Missouri law does not prohibit trolling fishing in Creve Coeur Lake.

R. J. P.—Children under 14 may be employed in agricultural pursuits and domestic service. Phone Attendance Officer Quinn, Board of Education phone.

BLANCHÉ.—By resorting to law the body at boarding house may be recovered, with the possibility of avoiding payment of which you write.

LAYMAN.—Law book stores have various works on corporation law, the subject covering either local or foreign. Explain to them just what you want.

WILLIAM.—You cannot do anything in the matter of water seepage from neighbor's driveway, and must protect yourself as best you can, at your own expense.

JINK.—To begin action against tenant for soiling or destroying wall paper will without question bring no results and probably more trouble. Drop the matter and be thankful it isn't any worse.

READER.—Providing there are no outstanding bills or liens filed against the property, and if the trust is silent in regard to completing building (which is most likely) the mortgage cannot be foreclosed by your husband taking his time. However, if default be made in payment of interest, taxes, insurance, etc., the same may.

ANXIOUS.—Whether it is necessary to be done owing to the driveway must be done on your own property and at your own expense, and no recourse against your neighbor.

As to the fence, by proper proceeding you can compel your neighbor to pay one-half and even then would come the haggling as to how much more than some more trouble. By putting the one you have in repair or erecting a new one, your own expense will cost less than litigation and prevent more animosity.

MISCELLANEOUS.

K. W. F.—We will answer your question as soon as we have space.

R. E.—See State Manual, Public Library for Senators, Representatives, etc.

VEE KAY.—Civil Service office, 93 and 95 North Second, on all examination positions.

G. N.—The Postoffice Department has nothing to do with premiums on rare postage stamps.

BROOKS.—By river to Cairo, 194 miles; to Cape Girardeau, 111 miles; to Cape St. Vincent, 45 miles; to Cairo, 200 miles; to know river distance to Florence, Ala., on the Tennessee.

H. I.—The "reform school" is known as the Missouri Training School for Boys, at St. Louis. Write to Superintendent, C. C. McClaughry, Booneville, Mo.

M. L. L.—Of London newspapers the Mail has the largest circulation, price half a penny, or 1 cent. The Times or Telegraph is largest in size: Times, 3 cents; Telegraph, 1 cent (postage added to above).

READER.—Figuring the interest upon the $100 for 1 year at 12 per cent, 12-1/2 per cent would make $12.50 per month or $11 for 10 months. We do not take into consideration reduction of interest caused by the pre-payments made monthly, which is one of agreement between the parties and if not so understood payee need not allow.

F. S.—Twentieth anniversary is the china wedding; anything in china or porcelain is a gift.

W. J.—If you have a diamond ring, you might secure a handsome present—a tea set, chocolate set, a dozen fine cigars and saucers, a silver umbrella holder, odd pieces of Satsuma, green India, cloisonne or a silver clock. Sometimes there are also cut-glass gifts.

G. L. M.—Nickel-plating without battery: Into porcelain or copper vessel place concentrated solution of zinc chloride, dilute with from one to two volumes of water and heat to boiling. If any precipitate separates, it is to be resolved by adding a few drops of hydrochloric acid. As much powdered zinc as can be got on the point of a knife is to be thrown in, which covers the vessel internally with a coating of zinc.

Salt for which purpose either the chloride or sulphate may be used, is added until the liquid is distinctly green; then put in the articles to be plated, previously thoroughly cleaned, together with spoonfuls of soda. Continue boiling 15 minutes, when the nickel coating is complete. Wash the articles with water and clean with chalk. If a thicker coating is desired repeat.

A JOURNEY IN OTHER WORLDS

A Romance from the pen of a hero of the Titanic.

By Col. John J. Astor

(Copyright, 1912, D. Appleton & Co.)
Published by arrangement between the Post-Dispatch and the executors of the J. J. Astor estate.

SYNOPSIS.
In the year 200 A. D. several scientists resolved to take a trip through the planets. After a long and arduous journey, they discovered a new and wonderful world known as Apey. The Callisto was Dr. Cortlandt, U. S. government expert. Col. Bearwarden, president of the Terrestrial Axis, and Richard Ayrault, a young capitalist, who was a dabbler in science, and was engaged to Sylvia, Ayrault's daughter, were also on the expedition. Their journey to the stars is described.

CHAPTER IV.

Heavenly Bodies.

THE following day, while in their observatory, they saw something not many miles ahead. They watched it for hours, and in fact all day, but notwithstanding their tremendous speed they could not see it clearly.

"They say a stern chase is a long one," said Bearwarden, "but that beats anything I have ever seen."

After a while, however, they found they were nearer, the time taken having been in part due to the deceptive distance, which was greater than they supposed.

"A comet!" exclaimed Cortlandt excitedly. "We shall really be able to examine it near."

"It's going in our direction," said Ayrault.

thousands of miles before them into space.
Having gone beyond the fragments, they applied a strong repulsion charge to the comet, creating thereby a perfect whirlpool among its particles, and quickly left it. Half an hour later they again shut off the current, as the Callisto's speed was sufficient.
For some time they had been in the belt of asteroids, but as yet they had seen none near. The morning following after breakfast as usual, and, on pointing their glasses forward, espied a comparatively large body before them, a little to their right.
"That must be Pallas," said Cortlandt, scrutinizing it closely. "It was discovered by Olbers in 1802, and was the second asteroid found, Ceres having been the first, in 1801. It has a diameter of about three hundred miles, being one of the largest of these small planets. The most wonderful thing about it is the inclination of its orbit—thirty-five degrees—to the plane of the elliptic, which means that at each revolution in its orbit it swings that much above and below the imaginary plane cutting the sun at its equator, from which the earth and other larger planets vary but little. This no doubt is due to the near approach and disturbing attraction of some large comet, or else it was flung above or below the ordinary plane in the catastrophe that we think befell the large planet that doubtless formerly existed where we now find this swarm. You can see that its path makes a considerable angle to the plane of the elliptic, and that it is now about crossing the line."

It soon presented the phase of a half moon, but the waviness of the straight line, as in the case of Venus and Mercury, showed that the size of the moon-

THE CALLISTO AND THE COMET

While the sun shone full upon it they brought their camera into play, and again succeeded in photographing a heavenly body at close range. The nucleus or head was of course turned toward the sun, while the tail, which they could see faintly, preceded it, as the comet was receding toward the cold and dark depths of space. The head was only a few miles in diameter, for it was a small comet, and was composed of grain and masses of stone and meteoric iron. Many of the grains were no larger than peas or mustard seeds; no mass was more than four feet in diameter, and all of them had very irregular shapes. The space between the particles was never less than one hundred times their masses.
"We can move along within it," said Ayrault, as the Callisto entered the aggregation of particles and moved slowly forward among them.
The windows in the dome, being made of toughened glass, and it was not highly so as to deflect anything touching them, and having, moreover, the pressure of the inside air to sustain them, were fairly safe, while the windows in the sides and base were but little exposed. Whenever a large mass seemed dangerously near the glass, they applied an aspersed shock to it and sent it rattling among its fellows. At these times the Callisto recoiled slightly also, the resulting motion in either being in inverse ratio to its weight. There was constant and incessant movement among the individual fragments, but it was not rotary. Nothing seemed to be revolving about anything else; all were moving, apparently swinging back and forth, but no collisions took place. When the separate particles got more than a certain distance apart they reapproached one another, but when seemingly within about one hundred diameters of each other they swung off in some other direction. After a time the Callisto seemed to become endowed with the same property that the fragments possessed; for it and they repelled one another, on a near approach, after which nothing came near.

Much of the material was like slag from a furnace, having evidently been partly fused. Whether this heat was the result of collisions or of its own approach to the sun at perihelion they could not tell, though the latter explanation seemed more at simple and probable. When at about the center of the nucleus they were in darkness—not twilight, for any ray that succeeded in penetrating was quickly absorbed, and the shadows, they observed, were very black. As they approached the farther side and the sunlight decreased, they found that a diffused luminous pervaded everything. It was sufficiently bright to enable them to see the dark line of the meteoric masses, and on arising from the nucleus in total darkness they found the shadow stretching tails must be tremendous compared with the mass of the body, some of them being obviously fifteen miles high. The intense blackness of the shadows, as on the moon, convinced them there was no trace of atmosphere.

As they left Pallas behind themselves and the sun it became a crescent and finally disappeared.
When they were so near that the disk here passed between them and Jupiter, Hilda passed between them and Jupiter, eclipsing it. To their surprise, the light was not instantly shut off, as when the moon occults a star, but there was evidence that the light was being reflected from the sun.
"By George!" said Bearwarden, "there is an asteroid that has an atmosphere." There was no mistaking it. They soon discovered a small ice-cap at one pole, and then made out oceans and continents, with mountains, forests, rivers and green fields. The sight lasted but a few moments before they swept by, but they secured several photographs and carried a vivid impression in their minds. Hilda appeared to be about two hundred miles in diameter.
How do you account for that living world?" Bearwarden asked Cortlandt. "On your theory of size and longevity?"
Cortlandt replied: "The theory, as I still believe, is correct. Hilda has either been brought to this system from some other planet, or it has been captured by the immense power of Jupiter, which might account for the eccentricity of its orbit, or some accident has happened to rejuvenate it here. A collision with another minor planet moving in an orbit that crossed its own, or with the head of a large comet, would have reconverted it into a star, perhaps after it had long been cold. It seems to me the most plausible theory. Over a hundred years ago the English astronomer Chambers wrote of having found traces of starsphere in some of these minor planets, but it was generally thought to be a mistake. One reason we know so little about this great swarm of minor planets is that till recently none of them showed a disk in the telescope. Inasmuch as only their light was visible, they were subject to discovery in stars, except by their slow motion. A hundred years ago only three hundred asteroids had been discovered; our photographic star charts have since then shown the number recorded to exceed one thousand."

To Prolong Life Avoid Worry

Adding Ten Years to Your Life Is a Possibility, Says This Writer for the Post-Dispatch
By J. A. HUSIK, M. D.

WORRY is one of the greatest enemies of the human race. It saps and devitalizes the whole nervous system, undermines the health and the normal working of all the bodily functions, and often lays the foundation for the state known as melancholia and perhaps even other forms of mental disease. It is the underlying and fatal cause of many a disease that refuses to yield to medical treatment and lasts as long as the mental state of worrying exists.

Worry is an extreme, excessive mental anxiety due to external and internal causes.

The internal conditions that bring about worry are subject to the will of the person himself. Be the will strong enough the various factors are overcome and the habit of worry is altogether abolished. There are causes from without that are often at the root of constant worry. The modern intense strain of life, the keen competition in business, the extravagant and utterly useless demands of life, the many new varieties of wants daily created by civilization—all these make the mind dwell on the one universal subject of how to make ends meet. Such a condition brings about no end of anxiety and worry; resulting in general ill health and a consequent shortening of life.

As has been said, worry depresses the nervous system, and this in turn affects the various organs of the body. Digestion is almost sure to suffer from it. And he that worries much is bound sooner or later to develop a state of dyspepsia. The resulting indigestion increases the worry, and thus the vicious circle is completed. Cause leads to effect; effect in turn becomes a cause.

Worry affects chiefly the nervous system. It disturbs sleep. Indeed, a night of sound sleep is impossible for one who becomes a slave in the habit of worry. The worry thus enervates and devitalizes, saps and sucks the lifeblood of an individual. In time it will paralyze and destroy him who becomes subject to it.

ADVICE ON Love and Courtesy

Written for the Post-Dispatch By BETTY VINCENT.

Congeniality.
THERE should be no marriage without love, but true love is always based on congeniality.

That is the great objection to the marriage of old or even middle-aged people, with the very young. There can be no similarity of tastes. The delights and discomforts of young men and women must, in the very nature of things, differ from the pursuits that please and displease persons of mature growth. A marriage between such conflicting elements is bound to be unhappy.

Money is often at the root of the unions between January and May, and a momentary infatuation on the part of January. And in these days of opportunity for women it is so particularly base to marry for a fortune. But the girl who does it brings her punishment upon herself.

Lending Jewelry.
S. writes: "A young man whom I have known for some time has recently been acting cool to me. Shall I send for my ring which he has, or ought he to return it?"
Ask him for the ring, and don't give or lend jewelry to young men acquaintances in the future.

Apologize.
C. writes: "I bruised a young lady's arm, although I had no intention of hurting her. Now she is angry and won't speak. What shall I do?"
I think a particularly abject apology is in order.

He May Return.
D. writes: "I am in love with a young man who formerly cared for me. At that time I ridiculed him, and now he seems to have lost his af-

An Icy of Cape de Castro

By Leroy Wallingford.

THE POST-DISPATCH DAILY SHORT STORY

It was Tong Sue who first discovered gold at Cape de Castro. Tong was prowling up the coast towards Port Darwin, and the strip of white sand that ran like a lace insertion between the emerald water and the stunted mangroves attracted him. Tong went ashore, washed the streaks of the sand, and then pulled his boat up on the beach. The find was exceptionally rich.

It is a peculiar fact that a discovery of gold, no matter how jealously the discoverer guards the secret, is carried in some inexplicable way to miles away from the find.

This mysterious "something" disturbed Tong Sue's solitude five days after he landed at Cape de Castro. A Japanese and a white man arrived from different points of the sun-burned plain, and they made straight for the beach and pegged out claims.

Next day arrived in the morning from the gray northwest, and the following day brought another. Tong viewed the newcomers with impassive eyes, but he gave no welcome. He washed industriously from early morning till the tropical twilight was smothered in the heavy night, and the little bag that hung round his neck grew heavier as the days passed.

He was unlucky for the Chinaman that the new arrivals were not as fortunate as himself. His days had been exceptionally profitable, but he soon realized that his claim was the exception.

On the fifth night after the arrival of the first strangers Tong was made sick by the smell of the sea, and he lay on his back, his head under the eaves of the four. His sleep was disturbed by a slight sound, and by amazing quickness he managed to twist his body in time to avoid the knife thrust. The incident disturbed him.

Tong had no wish to evacuate hurriedly. He was an aggressive person, and he was not a man to be trifled with. He was making the little bag heavier. That evening he crept into the bush towards a but-fallow a mile inland, and there performed the unpleasant work of bagging a portion of the carcass of a bull buffalo that had become bogged in the sticky mud some three weeks previous. The task was not agreeable, but Tong worked with much determination. He dug and poked at a circuitous track to his boat that he had secreted in the mangroves, and then paddled out into the little bay that sheltered behind the long, snaky strip of land that pointed toward Sumatra. He anchored the boat by means of a heavy stone and a few fathoms of rope and, by the aid of a long pole, he suspended the bag containing the portion of the dead buffalo from the stern to that it hung some feet above the water. Quite satisfied with his work, he lit his pipe and made a comfortable couch for himself in the bottom of the boat.

The four on shore missed Tong early that evening. One of their number had wanted a considerable amount of time and patience in crawling silently to the spot where the Chinaman usually slept, and was much disgusted at finding that Tong Sue had changed quarters. His companions made an extensive search and located the boat in the middle of the little bay.

They drew lots between themselves, and five minutes afterwards two of the Japs placed their knives between their teeth, stepped out of the boat, and waded into the warm water of the bay. The white man and the other Jap sat themselves down on the sand and waited. An hour passed and the two who had sworn out to expostulate with Tong had not returned. Three hours went by, yet no sounds came from the water. At last the white man, cursing softly, moved up the beach. The Jap followed slowly. It was plain to both that the gods had not been kind to the two swimmers. Tong Sue did not come ashore next morning. He had examined the beach for signs of a struggle, and saw only two of his visitors moving about he thought it advisable to stay on the water and rest. The Jap and the white man were no firebrands at Cape de Castro, and one has to be quick with a knife to deal with two visitors who make a surprise call. Sometimes the two on the beach wondered what was in the bag that Tong Sue had suspended from the stern of his boat.

"He will be sleepy tonight," remarked the white man. As the sun dipped towards the mangrove trees, the Jap nodded and sharpened his knife on a smooth pebble.

"He'll get him sure," continued the white, and the other bared his yellow teeth in a smile of approval.

Tong Sue overleapt himself the following morning. The sun was shining upon a deserted beach when he looked shorewards. He searched the shoreline patiently, but no one was visible. Then he glanced cunningly at the suspended bag of offal and the blue water beneath.

"Geezem all four," he laughed softly. "Plente good small, plente good shik. Damn fool not know!" He tripped lightly to the stern and started to unfasten the rope that bound the end of the pole to the boat. Tong Sue's thoughts were far away at that moment. The little maiden at Hankow came before his eyes, and he fingered the rope with clumsy fingers.

But it was a bad moment for day dreams. As Tong stepped across the pole, the untied rope was suddenly jerked up by the weight hanging upon the other extremity, and the Celestial was thrown into the water. A big "gray nurse" shark that had shepherded the buffalo meat for the preceding 24 hours, snapped the bag before it touched the surface of the water. Her traveling companion, medium-sized "bull nose," attended to Tong Sue, and peace settled down to her in the white beach of Cape de Castro.

SENATOR NIXON DIES IN SPITE OF HEALER

Wife Discharged Doctors by Wire and Hired Christian Science Church Member.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—George Nixon, United States Senator from Nevada and millionaire mine owner, died in the Episcopal Hospital at 10 o'clock last night from cerebral spinal meningitis. He was 53 years old.

Mrs. Nixon, who is speeding across the continent for Washington, having left her home in Nevada, accompanied by her son, Bertram, in the hope of reaching the bedside of her husband, before the end, had sent a telegram discharging the distinguished physicians attending her husband and appointing a Christian Science healer in their place.

In his last hours Senator Nixon had nothing to ease his pain or stay the disease except the non-medical treatment of William H. Campbell of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of this city. In accordance with Christian Science ethics no medicine was administered. Mrs. Nixon said more than a year ago Senator Nixon was not a Christian Scientist.

SEVEN MARRIAGES IN ONE

The ceremony which made 14 seven was performed by the Rev. Father Scabrella of the Church of Our Lady of Good Counsel. He had acted as the matrimonial agent in bringing the young men and young women together. The ceremony was performed on the deck of the vessel, while hundreds of persons looked on.

Write Your Own Guarantee on This Instrument—

Write your own guarantee on the Apollo Player Piano—we'll sign it.

This offer is bona fide—it is genuine—it is born of the confidence we have that the Apollo Player Piano will do all that any man or woman can ask of it. It is the result of the same feeling that inspired the manufacturer's offer of $1,000 gold to anyone, anywhere, who can produce any other player piano that does what the Apollo does musically.

Now our confidence is not born of our knowledge of the Apollo alone. It is bolstered up and backed up by the fact that we know the merits and shortcomings of over thirty other makes of player pianos. And among them all, the Apollo is the only one which conforms to all the requirements of music—the only one that accents the melody or omits it entirely—the only one that plays with a direct downward touch just as a human being. These things in conjunction with other exclusive features of the Apollo tend to make us certain that no man or woman, no matter how particular, can write a guarantee on the Apollo Player Piano that we would hesitate to sign and live up to.

If you'll drop in and hear the Apollo render your favorite selections—if you'll try it yourself, you'll appreciate its simplicity and perfection.

RESTAURANTS UNDER STANDARD'S CONTROL

Oil Interests Hold Stock in Chain of Childs' Eating Places.

NEW YORK, June 6.—To the many mercantile and commercial enterprises controlled by the Standard Oil interests has been added the great chain of eating places conducted by the Childs Restaurant Co., according to Edward T. Bedford, vice-president of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey. Bedford made it clear that the Standard Oil Co. as a corporation, had not become interested in the restaurants, but admitted that certain stockholders in Standard Oil had diverted a portion of their profits to buy stock in the Childs company.

Several years ago the men who established the Childs restaurants were in need of funds, and the company issued additional stock, and succeeded in interesting men of financial power in the possibilities of cheap restaurant business.

HAWLEY HEIR IS SUED BY HIS WIFE

Mrs. F. H. Crandell Seeks Separation, Saying Husband Abandoned Her.

NEW YORK, June 6.—Adeline Crandell has sued Frederic H. Crandell, nephew of Edwin Hawley, and one of his chief heirs, for separation. Fred Crandell is the nephew who was cast off by Hawley because he married a pretty telegraph operator working for Hawley in the offices of the Southern Pacific Railroad Co.

With his wife, Crandell weathered some heavy storms. Nine children were born to them, of whom five still live. When Hawley died intestate, thus leaving his fortune to his heirs, Crandell was working as a clerk for a contracting firm, while his wife was in the workhouse on Blackwell's Island, having been sent there for disorderly conduct. Because of his marriage, Crandell lost his standing with Hawley and with it, he thought, his chance for a part of the Hawley fortune. Now that he has the fortune, his wife charges that he has abandoned her and has sought to further disgrace her.

DANCERS AND NUNS AT GAY SUPPERS IN A MONASTERY

Investigators of Russian Religious Houses Find $50,000 Was Spent on Affinities.

MOSCOW, Russia, June 6.—In a monastery of Serebren the commission delegated to "clean up" religious houses found that a monk named Andrew was living in the same cell with a woman named Porakova, who had been with him constantly for 20 years.

He explained that she was necessary to examine women who came to him to have devils cast out. Porakova herself had seven devils when he first knew her, but he had cast them all out in the last 20 years by means of prayer. He named them as tongue, temper, impatience, untruthfulness, pride, laziness and greed. She is now a perfect woman.

In the Troicki monastery at Kieff, the commission found that although the house's income for the last year was $50,000, only $7 remained. The archimandrite, Father Melchizedek, spent the rest on his "affinities," buying a villa for one and jewels for the others. The Holy Synod sent him, under arrest, to the monastery of St. Michel, where he is guarded by monks until the case against him is ready.

He and some other monks made a point of giving gay supper parties to dancers from the town who appeared at the monastery twice a week for these festivities. At times nuns from a neighboring house were entertained in a like way.

The commission has already found scores of religious houses in the same state, though it began work only two months ago.

SNATCHES CASH FROM AERIAL CHANGE BOXES

Mysterious Losses Solved by Arrest of Inspector of Store Basket System.

The art of snatching money from aerial cash baskets that glide over the heads of shoppers in big stores is credited by the police to John W. Simmons, who is at Central District Police Station awaiting prosecution on a charge of larceny. Simmons admitted to the detectives who arrested him that he had snatched several of the baskets while they were being "shot" from various counters to the cashiers on the balconies.

Simmons until recently was employed as an inspector by the Lamson Co. in the Century building, which provides cash baskets used in large downtown stores.

Several times within the past month money has mysteriously disappeared from the baskets after the cash girl behind the counter had placed it in the carrier and started it toward the cashier.

A watch was kept on the baskets, and a few weeks ago Simmons was seen to stop a basket in flight at the Garland Clock and Suit Co.'s store. He extracted a $20 bill from the money pocket and sent the basket ahead on its journey.

Detectives Hannegan and Heckel saw Simmons at Ninth and Locust streets Wednesday afternoon and arrested him. He admitted the thefts, saying the $20 bill was the largest amount he stole.

PATROLMAN WINS BRIDE WORTH $80,000

She Collected Fortune in Tips in Twelve Years' Service at Waldorf-Astoria.

NEW YORK, June 6.—Traffic Patrolman Michael Dugan, on duty at Fifth avenue and Thirty-third street, by the Waldorf-Astoria, peeped for months through the hotel windows at Miss Rose Farrell, the girl at the hat stand. He at last succeeded in obtaining a formal introduction, made love to her and last evening married her.

Thereby the hotel lost an employee who had been there 12 years. For the past eight years she checked hats. Last night, after the ceremony, she showed the bridegroom deeds to property on City Island estimated to be worth between $75,000 and $80,000, besides a bank book showing several thousands of dollars on deposit. Dugan was determined not to start a row on his very first day, so he held his tongue. He said nothing, even when his bride chirped:

"It's all yours and mine, Mike; I'll not be stingy with you."

Dugan was for having the knot tied long ago, but his fiancée had not yet gathered in enough tips. She had invested $15,000 in real estate. Values tumbled in little more than a year.

WHAT pictures the sonorous Spanish word brings to the imagination! The lofty ranges from whose summits flow the rivers that reach three oceans and traverse almost two-thirds of the continent. The deep-cut canons, in whose granite depths the shrubs and flowers make unexpected bowers of beauty. The shouldering summits and grassy plateaus in whose evergreen forests roam the deer and elk, the bear and puma, the rabbits and grouse in almost the profusion of a primeval wilderness. The crystal rivers, in whose pellucid pools the trout are waiting to seize the feathered lure. The great cities and resorts where every comfort and enjoyment of civilization is added to the delights of the scenery and the climate.

WOMAN FIGHTS TO SAVE BIRD FROM FIRE

Mrs. Augusta Quass Ignores Burns and Tries to Rush Into Home After Canary.

After being saved from her burning home at 6013 Gravois avenue Wednesday night, Mrs. Augusta Quass, although seriously burned, fought with her rescuers and tried to return to the house to save her canary.

Mrs. Quass has rooms above those of her son-in-law, Adolph Hoffman. Lightning struck the house and the roof was in flames.

Mrs. Quass tried to put out the fire but the flames broke through the roof and burned her face and hands.

Carl Kluth of 501 Gravois avenue heard Mrs. Quass' screams and ran to the house. After he carried her out she broke away from him and he had to overpower her. She repeatedly cried that her canary would be burned to death. The bird was saved.

LORIMER TO RESIGN, FRIENDS WHO MAKE NEW PLEA BELIEVE

Illinoisan Told of Desertion of 3 Former Supporters, Because of New Bribe Facts.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—The Post-Dispatch correspondent can say on authority that Senator Lorimer was asked last night by intimate friends in the Senate to resign. Lorimer is informed that at least three of the Senators who voted for him before will not do so again.

Those who will vote against Lorimer, it is said, are Senators Simmons of North Carolina, Martin and Swanson of Virginia. It is understood that Lorimer will break away from him if a test comes. Facing this situation, Lorimer is being urged to get out without further embarrassing his friends.

Those senators who desert Lorimer do so because of additional evidence brought out on the second trial. Lorimer, it is reported, will resign.

CONTRACTOR HELD IN ROW ABOUT A SEWER

John A. Boyers, 2726 Dalton, in Observation Ward on Complaint of Neighbors.

John A. Boyers, 51, a wealthy contractor of 2726 Dalton avenue, is being held in the observation ward at the city hospital, following complaints by neighbors that he has threatened them. Boyers owns numerous pieces of property in the neighborhood of his home, and declares he has had trouble with neighbors about a sewer that empties near his door.

He said Thursday that the Health Department had issued summons against several of his neighbors, and that a summons has been issued against him for damming the sewer. He said he did not know why he was being held, and Dispenary Physician Henry said he did not believe Boyers to be unbalanced.

The property owners are led by Otto F. Karbe and E. A. Roepke, attorneys, and they, including the Rev. Earl Hewson, with other neighbors, according to Boyers, local agent of the Anglesa Fish Co., found a diamond ring valued at $300 in the mouth of one of the fish received this morning in a barrel from Anglesa.

DIES IN ELECTRIC CHAIR

Italian Pays Penalty for Death of Woman's Husband.

BOSTON, June 6.—Harry Marshall, whose Italian name is Enrico Mascioli, died in the electric chair at Charlestown today for murdering Frank Cusumano in September, 1910. Marshall died calmly, murmuring prayers and kissing the crucifix even after the fatal straps were adjusted.

Marshall went to his death ignorant of the commutation of the death sentence of Mrs. Cusumano, who was sentenced to die with him for the murder of her husband. The electric chair had been occupied last by the Rev. Clarence V. Richeson, former St. Louisan, slayer of Avis Linell.

PRIEST DIES COMING FROM HOLY LAND

The Rev. Joseph Kraemer Received Purse for Trip From Parishioners.

KALAMAZOO, Mich., June 6.—The death of the Rev. Joseph Kraemer occurred at sea while he was on his way home from a visit to the Holy Land to which he had long looked forward with great enthusiasm.

The esteem in which he was held by friends here is best illustrated by the customary way of addressing him as "Father Jo." He was that to hundreds in Kalamazoo who did not belong to his church.

For most of his 45 years in the priesthood he was a devoted student of Bible history and last spring his parishioners gave him a purse for a trip to the Holy Land. The body was brought here for burial.

THE POST-DISPATCH DAILY RECORD OF MARKETS AND FINANCE

BUYERS HAVE AN ADVANTAGE IN STOCK MARKET

Prices Are Higher in the Late Trading; London List Is Steady.

DAY'S NEWS FAVORABLE

Crop Reports Are Better and Money Trust Inquiry Is Postponed.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 6.—The Evening Post in its copyrighted financial review today says:

"News of the day included two developments with more or less bearing on the stock market. One was the report showing, on the daily weather map, that rain and wind were blowing from the north and west, with a wide area of the dry transmississippi districts in the 24 hour forecast, the other was the report of the recent, suspicious lowering of prices, at the very moment when the private experts in Kansas and Nebraska were painting the outlook in the darkest colors."

"Nothing in fact, as yet has been said, though it is true that the market has been somewhat better, but only moderately, though this was sufficiently explained by the recent, suspicious lowering of prices, at the very moment when the private experts in Kansas and Nebraska were painting the outlook in the darkest colors."

"The stock market opened with a functional advance in the usually active shares, Reading and Amalgamated copper leading. This movement, like yesterday's, was plainly of professional origin. It was carried further in the market, which advanced a point or two, and in the final hour the buying movement was resumed, the action being chiefly carried to the best figures of the day."

"In the middle of the day the market grew dull and prices reacted, but at the close the advance was maintained, completely, and in the final hour the buying movement was resumed, the action being chiefly carried to the best figures of the day."
